BLIZZARD SWEEPS NEW YORK: SEVENTEEN DEAD

FRENCH MONETARY POLICY

ADHERENCE TO OLD
PRINCIPLES

PRICE CONTROL

Paris, Feb. 21.

It was intimated in the Chamber of Deputies last night that the French Government has no intention of following the British and American policies of influencing commodity prices by currency control.

The Government's policy seeks an adjustment of the level of internal and external prices but without currency manipulation.

The method was enunciated by the Finance Minister, M. Germain Martin, in the course of a speech in which he declared that internal prices were high on account of agricultural protection and the results of the war.

LEAST PAINFUL.

The Government would pursue the least painful method of restoring the country's maximum activity, and was convinced that simple devaluation would not bring about an adjustment of prices.

Meanwhile, the Senate has passed a Bill raising the Customs duty on tea from 3.54 francs to 7.76 francs a kilogram, with the object of protecting the French Colonies, especially Indo-China.—Reuter.

FOOT OF SNOW IN NEW YORK

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, February 21, 0.28 a.m.)

NEW YORK, FEB. 20.

WRETCHED CONDITIONS HAVE BEEN PRODUCED THROUGHOUT THE NORTH-EASTERN STATES BY THE SWIFT DESCENT OF ARCTIC WEATHER, ACCOMPANIED BY A FIERCE BLIZZARD WHICH HAS CRIPPLED COMMUNICATIONS OVER AN IMMENSE AREA.

Eight inches of snow in New York City caused the worst traffic snarl for years, motor-cars being brought to a standstill and abandoned in scores, while railway services were completely disrupted. At least half a million people, season-ticket holders, were unable to get to their offices to-day.

At least seventeen persons are dead as a result of the bitterly cold weather, while Army aviators, attempting to carry the mails, found themselves

One machine crashed at Greenville, South Carolina, but the pilot escaped without injuries and the mail was saved.

Great interest was taken in the performances of the Army fliers on the air mail carrying exploits.

FORCED TO GROUND.

One machine managed to battle its way through extremely foul weather from Cleveland to Newark, but dozens of other machines, both army and commercial, which ventured attempts to defy the weather conditions, were forced to go to ground.

All along the Atlantic seaboard, planes were forced down.

In the South and Middle West, better success marked the army air mail carriers and some of them established new records.

The blizzard raging in New York State has carpeted the entire country with inches of snow, completely disorganising the carriage of food supplies etcetera.—United Press.

'BOLTON'S RISE

GREAT VICTORY AT OLDHAM

CHALLENGING FOR PROMOTION

London, Feb. 20.

Bolton Wanderers are in brilliant form just now. Following up their remarkable 3-0 Cup victory at Liverpool, on Saturday, they to-day defeated Oldham Athletic by three goals to one at Oldham, in a Second Division league match.

The success puts them in a strong challenging position for promotion, the leading positions in the table being:

	P.	W.	D.	L.	F.	A.	Pts.
Grimsby	29	20	1	8	70	41	41
Brentford	29	15	5	9	64	47	35

Blackpool	20	12	9	8	40	39	33
Preston	28	13	0	9	51	38	32

In the Third Division (North), York City took part in a high-scoring game at Rochdale which added to the home side's discomfiture at the foot of the table. Rochdale scored three goals, but it was far from sufficient for victory, their own defence being penetrated on six occasions.

It was Rochdale's seventh defeat of the season.—Reuter.

JAPANESE COMPLAINT DISCOUNTED

(Special to "Telegraph")

Nanking, Feb. 21.

Report from Tokyo suggests that the Japanese Government intends to remind the Chinese Government of Japan's anxiety over the alleged international significance of the two big aerodromes recently built in Amoy and Fochow.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei declared in an interview with a Central News representative that the two aerodromes referred to were merely the old ones, enlarged somewhat in order to meet the needs of military operations against the "Reds" and civil aviation.

The report that the cost of building the aerodromes in Fukien was met from the U.S. Cotton and Wheat Loan was branded as absolutely groundless.—Central News.

BLACK SHIRTS IN ENGLAND

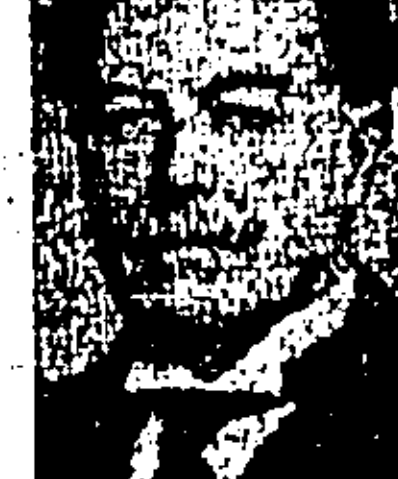

PROVOCATION TO DISORDER

PROHIBITION LIKELY

London, Feb. 20.

The Mosley Black Shirt campaign in England is causing increasing concern to the authorities, not because of the headway it is making but because of the hostility aroused in many places.

Asked in the House of Commons whether he proposed to prohibit the wearing of uniforms by political parties, the Home Secretary, Sir John Gilmour, said that representations on the subject had reached him from many quarters.

He was most concerned with the provocative effect of such uniforms in the streets and public places, and disturbances, which the police attributed to the wearing of political uniforms, had increased from eleven in the first half of 1933 to twenty-two in the last six months.

The whole question was engaging his serious consideration.—British Wireless.

MOVING TRIBUTES IN PARLIAMENT

Prime Minister's Oration

London, Feb. 20.

Eloquent and moving tributes to the late King Albert were delivered in both Houses of Parliament to-day.

In the Commons, the floor and galleries were crowded when at the end of question time the Prime Minister rose to move that King George be asked to convey an expression of the deep regret with which the House had learned the news of King Albert's death and to pray him to express the profound sympathy felt with the Queen of the Belgians, the Royal family and the Government and people of Belgium.

The Prime Minister said the late King held a unique place among the rulers of Europe. He recalled how at the outbreak of the war in 1914, this quiet and unobtrusive man was unshakable in his devotion to national liberty and his loyalty to obligations. He was the embodiment of his people and one of the most powerful personal factors in the conduct of the war. As the months passed

Secret of Family Happiness

By Olive Roberts Barton

Members of the average family aren't always nice to each other. So often it happens that father, mother and children seem to be waiting for someone's hat to drop, or the chip to fall off a shoulder, or the fat to jump into the fire.

This habit of grouching in families grows so subtly and so swiftly that no one suspects it. If their friends, relatives or neighbours were to hint that all was not serene in their daily life they would be hurt and resentful.

Family Irritability Growing

Yet if one appeared unexpectedly on the threshold at any minute of almost any day when this family is together the chances are there would be a ruckus going on about something, or someone yelling, or someone quietly sulking to himself. If the family in question disdains such plebeian tactics and considers verbal fencing a higher form of combative art than the cleaver or the broad sword of noisy quarrelling, things can be quite as uncomfortable.

Wealth, culture, or social position make little difference. The family in which the habit of quarrelling has taken root will go about it in its own way. One can go into

A COAT to make any schoolgirl laugh at wintry winds is the model shown in the illustration. It is designed in five sizes: 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 12 requires 2 1/8 yards of 54-inch material plus 2 3/4 yards of 35-inch lining. To interline the collar, cuffs and fronts requires 2-3 yard of canvas or crinoline.

a house as quietly serene, seemingly, as a dewy dell on a May morning, yet feel instantly the brittle strain of unfriendliness in every word and gesture.

This irritability and impatience is growing rapidly in American homes. It was almost inevitable for this to happen, as individual interests have drifted apart with the years. Moreover, there are too few common ties. Each one comes in tired and the family meets at a time when nerves are not their best. And there is plenty to-day to unnerve the best of us.

Talk the Matter Over

What would be wrong with calling the family together for a council, passing the pipe of peace, and discussing the state of affairs?

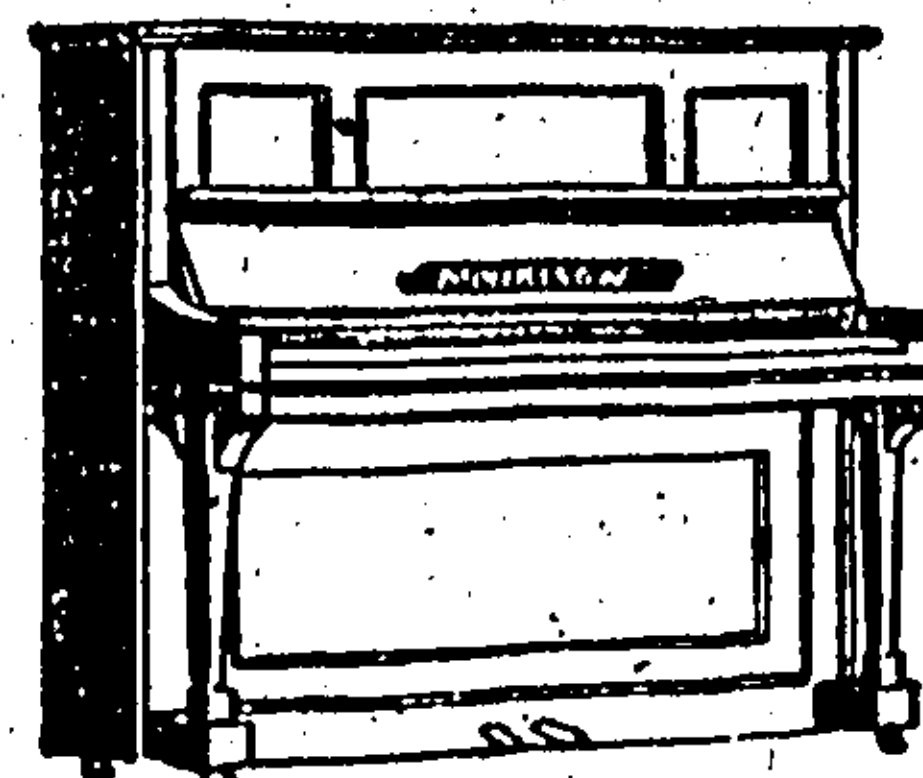

A mother might say, "Children, and you too, Dad, and I myself, have become careless of each other's feelings. We are short tempered and fly off without reason at the slightest thing. We offend where we don't really mean to, we accuse or get suspicious when we should know better, we are disoblighing, selfish and sour. In fact we often treat each far less courteously than we would treat complete strangers.

"Let us all try to be kinder, to help each other. We might try to smile and be merry instead of looking like thunder clouds half the time."

And any family that it worth its salt will give three cheers for good old Rutgers and agree to adopt new rules for the home team in the future.

No Use Being a Pliker!

By Small

Forgotten Sweetheart by MARY RAYMOND

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

BOB WESTON, son of a millionaire, is in love with JUAN WARRING, pretty Memphis girl. He has come to Memphis in connection with a textile plant under construction for his father's company.

BARBARA COURTNEY, society girl, whom he knew in New York, is scheming to win him away from Juan.

PAT, Juan's younger sister, is infatuated with JERRY FORREST, son of her employer. MISS WARRING, hopeful that her two daughters will marry well and escape the drudgery that has been her lot, has made every effort to give her daughters advantages. Through Barbara, Juan is invited on a house party. Barbara realizes Juan will be ill at ease among so many strangers and hopes Bob will be disillusioned. From the very beginning of the house party things go wrong for Juan. He has nothing in common with the sophisticated wealthy girls who take it for granted that Bob is in love with Barbara. Double the Juan's mind. Unhappy because of Barbara's possessive attitude toward Bob, too proud to show that she is hurt, Juan accepts the attentions of JIM WALKFIELD. There is a dancing party and Juan, determinedly gay, has plenty of partners. Bob, not understanding her conduct, is disappointed in her.

CHAPTER XIV

Joan and Bob had barely circled the room when Jim put his hand on Bob's arm, cutting in on the dance. Bob made his way toward Barbara. The orchestra was playing a slow waltz. Barbara's bright head nestled close against Bob's shoulder, a smile curving her lips. The music stopped and they left the floor.

"I've been trying to get a word alone with you all evening," Jim told Joan, "but you're too popular. Listen, I'm out of cigarettes. Will you go with me to get some? There's a little store a few miles away that stays open all night."

Joan hesitated. "Please come!" "Why not?" she answered, thinking of Bob and Barbara leaving the dance floor, going through the door leading to a dimly-lighted porch. "Don't bother about a wrap," said Jim. "My overcoat is in the car."

A few minutes later they were spinning along the smooth highway. The small store, windows bright even at this late hour, loomed up suddenly. Jim drove past.

"Your cigarettes?" said Joan. Jim laughed. "In my pocket."

"In your pocket?" "Don't be silly, Joan. You knew that was an excuse." Joan answered. "You said you wanted them."

"There were plenty at the house."

even if I hadn't been well supplied. And I am." He reached into his pocket.

"Strike a match for me, Joan." He checked the car's speed. Joan struck a match and as it flared up she saw his bright, feverish eyes.

"Thanks." He pulled the car to one side of the road, stopping it. "You know very well why I brought you away," he went on. "I wanted you here with me—away from that crowd. It isn't your crowd, Joan. And I'm crazy about you!"

His arms were about her suddenly. He was lifting her face to his. Joan, resisting fiercely, said: "If you kiss me I'll never forgive you, Jim."

"You don't think I'd lose this opportunity?" He was laughing. "I liked you," Joan said steadily. "You seemed decent and understanding. I thought you were the best friend I had there."

His arms dropped. "Well, have it your way then. If I were just a little drunker I wouldn't listen to you."

He started the car and Joan relaxed in her seat. The engine began jerking. Jim pulled out the choker and jimmied it in again. The car moved along a few feet jerkily, then came to a standstill.

"No gas, Joan," Jim said slowly. "There's nothing to do but walk to the store and get some."

"I'll go with you," she said. They walked along in silence until they reached the curve in the road.

"Hell!" said Jim. "The lights are out in the store." He turned and looked at her. "The frill white slippers she wore and groaned."

"I'm all kinds of an idiot! We'll have to walk."

"How far is it?" asked Joan. "Nearly three miles."

"Let's start." She spoke bravely, steadily. But she was thinking miserably. "This is what comes of jealousy. I'm paying the piper."

"Where's that good-looking Joan girl?" Fred sang out.

"With Jim on the porch probably."

"Not on the porch," said Barbara. "They drove off in Jim's car an hour ago."

"Probably went to the store for cigarettes. I know those old tricks of Jim's," said Carol easily.

"Or a coca cola," suggested Charlie Ross with a laugh. "Or an aspirin," someone else offered cynically. "Jim probably needed one. He certainly didn't need any more liquid refreshment."

Rage burned in Bob's heart. To think of Joan going off with that jug-head, letting herself in for a lot of gossip and infernal speculation!

He went out on the porch, staring down the black stretch of road toward the neighbourhood store. He looked at his watch. It was one o'clock. A half hour later he looked at his watch again.

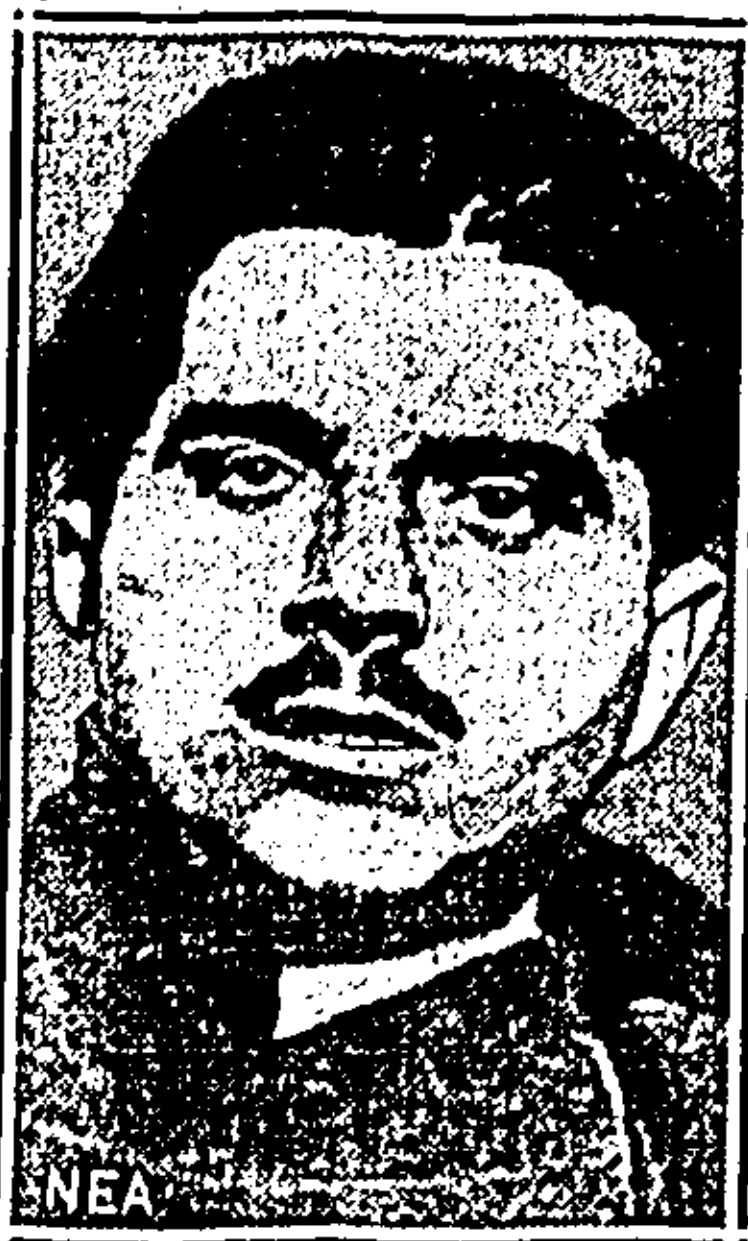

Some of the others came out on the porch. "I can't imagine what has happened to them," Carol was saying.

"We are being very silly," said Barbara. "Nothing's happened."

"They'll be coming in presently," Enid said.

"They always do," said Charlie in his tired, wise voice.

There were steps on the drive—a white blur in the darkness. And then, as the light from the porch reached out, a dark shadow beside the white.

Nicholas Constantinescu, the Bucharest University student who murdered Dr. Duca, Rumania's Premier recently.

Joan and Jim! They came up on the porch. The gay girl of two hours before had vanished. Joan's hair, blown by the long walk in the wind, was in disorder. There were deep, weary shadows under her eyes. Her shoulders, under the man's coat, sagged forlornly.

Jim's face showed strain, too. His hair was rumpled. His eyes were bright and feverish. Searching the faces on the porch, he said contemptuously, "A royal reception. Don't say you were really alarmed about us!"

"The gas ran out," he added slowly. And then, as no one spoke, "Now, some darn fool laugh!"

"But evidently your liquor didn't," This from Charlie.

"Comedy isn't your role," Jim said.

"Nobody but a damn idiot would drive off without enough gas in his car," said Bob.

"Lay off, will you, Weston?" said Jim dangerously.

Bob stepped forward but Barbara caught his arm. "Please, Bob, you are making it hard for Carol."

"Come on in," said Enid, striving for gaiety. "I have a dance with someone."

Joan slipped out of the big coat and handed it to Jim. "I'm going up," she said. "Good night."

She went inside and up the stairs slowly. As she reached the top she heard Carol's voice, "I shouldn't have invited her—Barbara warned me. Blood will tell you know. What could you expect from a girl whose father was a thief and a suicide?"

Joan put out one hand steadily, waving herself against the railing. Wave upon wave of humiliation and shame poured through her. Shame most of all for herself. She had brought this upon herself, trying to be like the others, seeking cheap popularity. Trying to win Bob—when he wanted Barbara!

As she entered the room the group moved apart quickly. Carol said stiffly, "You must be tired. Is there anything I can do for you?"

"Nothing," said Joan steadily. "Hurry," Sally said to Enid. "Don't dawdle so. We're wasting a heavenly waltz."

Enid dusted powder on her face and followed without a word.

"They know I heard," Joan thought. "But it really makes no difference to them."

Joan began undressing mechanically. Once, passing the mirror door, she saw a strange girl with tragic eyes, all the blood drained from her face. She felt tears against her lashes.

And three days before she had driven from Memphis, sure of happiness ahead.

Someone knocked at the door but before she reached it an envelope was slipped through. Joan stopped and picked it up. On the

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

"Emperor Jones", which is only the fourth play of the great playwright, Eugene O'Neill, to be filmed, is the feature attraction coming on Thursday at the King's Theatre. This picture marks the screen debut of Paul Robeson, famous Negro concert singer and actor, and the initial production of John Krimsky and Clifford Cochran, those intrepid young men who brought "Mädchen in Uniform" to America. In contributing "Emperor Jones" to the screen Messrs. Krimsky and Cochran, with the acquiescence and endorsement of Mr. O'Neill, have elaborated the story in such fashion that the career of Brutus Jones is traced from the day in which he confidently leaves his South Carolina home to enter the marts of commerce and adventure as a Pullman porter. The O'Neill play has been preserved intact, but before we see Jones about to flee from his voodoo-supported throne, the life of the outlawed porter is portrayed in brief slices leading up to the eventful day when he is washed ashore on a tropical island, a fugitive from justice. His rise and fall, his avarice, his romances, his arrogance and his egotism, are all pictured, whereas, in the original, Jones' sins and transgressions are only discovered when ghosts of them turn up to be-devil him as he barges deliciously through the forest.

"Attorney for the Defense"

Constance Cummings, appearing in Columbia's "Attorney for the Defense," in the role of secretary to a famous criminal lawyer, declares that she gave considerable time and study to the selection of exactly the type of clothes a business girl should wear. "Attorney for the Defense" starring Edmund Lowe, is coming to Queen's Theatre on Thursday. In one scene Miss Cummings appears in a simple brown silk model, with a small frill and bow of cream satin at the neck and cuffs. In another scene she wears a lovely suit ensemble in blue, accented by a sheer batiste blouse, hand embroidered. In purchasing her wardrobe, Miss Cummings kept the cost within the limited budget of a business girl. In this way she managed to find exactly the dresses she felt a secretary should wear and at the price she would pay. As the result of her selection, Miss Cummings felt more "at home" in her part, giving a most realistic characterization of this dramatic role. Besides Edmund Lowe, who stars in this gripping drama of New York's court rooms, other well known players in the cast, in addition to Miss Cummings, are Evelyn Brent, Donald Dillaway, Dorothy Petersen, Bradley Page, Dwight Faye, Wallis Clark, Douglas Hale, Clarence Muse and Nat Pendleton.

"The Private Life of Henry VIII"

"The Private Life of Henry VIII," widely hailed as Charles Laughton's greatest picture and performance, is still the attraction at the King's Theatre. Charles Laughton spent many weeks in research work preparing for the role of Henry VIII, a character he has long desired to portray. Five of his six wives are shown in the picture. Elsa Lanchester, Laughton's wife, playing Ann of Cleves; Binnie Barnes, Katharine Howard; Merle Oberon, Anne Boleyn; Wendy Barrie, Jane Seymour; and Everley Gregg, Katherine Parr. The clothes worn by Henry and the queens were reconstructed from paintings. The interior sets are faithful reproductions of those at Hampton Court and other Tudor palaces frequented by Henry VIII and genuine period furniture was employed to dress the sets.

Alhambra Attraction

A most unusual and extraordinary type of story comes to Alhambra

Theatre to-morrow in the Warner Bros. picture, "I Am A Fugitive From A Chain Gang," starring Paul Muni, with the most brilliant supporting cast ever used at the Warner Studio. The screen play by Sheridan Gibney and Brown Holmes is based on the autobiographical novel of Robert E. Burns. The picture treats of the astounding experiences of a man sentenced to a state chain gang for the theft of less than five dollars, who escaped and is still at large. It portrays the terrors of chain gang life, which are picturesque despite their shuddery aspect. This shows how prisoners, their legs shackled together and to each other, are forced to work on rock piles until they fall exhausted. The tale is replete with thrills including the flight of a convict through swamps, pursued by armed guards and by a bridge with ramrods and a battle of prisoners armed with explosives with guards with rifles. In addition to the many thrills and the tremendous drama of the piece, there is a glowing romance of the fugitive's undying love for a woman he can never marry in the heart-breaking experience of his meeting to a woman who held him through the knowledge of his secret and eventually betrayed him and surrendered him to the authorities.

"The Song You Gave Me"

"The Song You Gave Me" will be the song everyone is humming when the new British International film of this title is shown at the Central Theatre next week. Bebe Daniels, the famous Hollywood star who went to England expressly to star in this picture plays the part of a musical comedy actress, and her romance in the story begins when a young man presents her with his first composition. Noel Gay, whose song hits are as numerous as they are popular, actually wrote this haunting number for Bebe and filmgoers who collect her glorious voice in "Rio Rita" can imagine the trend that awaits them in "The Song You Gave Me." Iris Ashley, the well-known West End cabaret star, who plays an important part in the film, also sings and Noel Gay has prepared a number specially to suit her snappy style entitled "Who'll Buy Me."

"Night Flight"

Thrills, pathos, comedy and romance are deftly combined, it is said, to make "Night Flight," now showing at the Queen's, one of the greatest productions of the season. Certainly Director Clarence Brown has placed in it a multi-star cast of remarkable proportions. The players include John Barrymore, Helen Hayes, Clark Gable, Lionel Barrymore, Robert Montgomery, Myrna Loy, William Garson, C. Henry Gordon and Leslie Fenton. The story is announced as the most authentic and most human tale of the night air mail ever written. It is from the pen of Antoine de Saint-Exupery, himself a pilot over the very air line in South America so vividly described in the talking picture.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1934.

FOREIGN AID FOR CHINA

Mr. Wang Ching-wei's statement of Government policy in regard to the economic development and material reconstruction of China betokens a keen perception of future needs. In particular, recognition of the necessity for foreign co-operation will be widely welcomed. When the immensity of the task which faces China is borne in mind, it becomes patent that, unaided, she cannot hope to achieve much. The vast natural resources of the country cannot possibly be developed until the system of communications is extended and the interior opened up in such a manner as to enable these largely untapped reserves to be efficiently exploited. In coal and other mineral resources, China has hidden supplies not only sufficient for her own needs but for the needs of the greater part of the world. So long as these are allowed to lie untouched, so long can it be said that China is not making her proper contribution to world progress and development. Given a disposition to avail herself of foreign aid, technical and financial, China can rise to a foremost place industrially and economically amongst the nations of the world. This fact is apparently now being borne in on the mind of her leaders, who realise that the task is of such magnitude that outside help is essential. That such help will be readily forthcoming, provided mutually satisfactory arrangements are made, there can be no question. Mr. Wang Ching-wei does well in this connexion to stress the point that there must be adequate security and guarantees if foreign financial help is sought. Other nations have greatly benefited from such aid, and there need be no question of fearing undue foreign influence in the arrangements necessary to the end in view. Indeed, China can easily reassure herself on this point by seeing that, once the arrangements are concluded, there is prompt and consistent discharge of obligations. Once this is assured, the way should be made easy. By the effective suppression of the Fukien revolt and by the progress so far made in handling the Communist menace, the Nanking Government is creating for itself an increasingly good reputation abroad. Wise financial policies, coupled with a willingness to seek sound foreign co-operation, would at this stage greatly facilitate the progress of the nation. It goes without saying that, in any efforts along these lines, Britain can be counted upon as a real friend of China.

NOTES OF THE DAY

PORTSMOUTH BY-ELECTION

Even such a popular candidate as Admiral Sir Roger Keyes in the naval-minded constituency of Portsmouth could not produce a reversal of the downward trend of National Government votes. Sir Roger gained the seat certainly, but the Conservative poll was reduced by nearly nine thousand. The inference is impossible to miss. The losses have been too consistent over the whole range of recent by-elections for any mistake to be possible. The National Government is no longer capable of inspiring national enthusiasm; the people are no longer keenly interested in its survival or defeat. Those holding political convictions have returned to party folds; the remainder cannot be bothered to record their votes one way or the other.

UP AND DOWN

Yet there are people, like Sir Oswald Mosley, who still believe that the British voter can be jollied into active demonstration of impatience with Parliamentary methods. They will in all likelihood spend a great deal more money on armoured cars and the like before admitting what a waste it is. Doubtless there are compensations. It must feel great to be able to conjure up the Crusader spirit—to be up and doing, even in the face of a tiny suspicion that it cannot be done.

NAZI ULTIMATUM

Herr Habicht's declaration of a Nazi armistice in Austria is a pretty clear indication of Germany's opinion of British, French and Italian solidity regarding the independence of Austria. It is as much an ultimatum as a truce offering and as such merely renders the outcome a trifle more uncertain. The strangest thing is Berlin's persistent refusal to acknowledge interference in Austria's internal affairs. The Habicht speech from the Munich broadcasting station was either a crude bluff or a plain intimation that the Nazi adherents in Austria are obedient to German orders. London, Paris and Rome are too obviously worried about the business to admit of the possibility that the Nazi spokesman was bluffing.

DULLFUSS DILEMMA

Dr. Dollfuss, meanwhile, is in a most unhappy position. His campaign against the Socialists deprived Austria of much sympathy in Britain. France, too, is inclined to be hostile. These are the two countries prepared to face the consequences of an Austrian appeal to the League. France, indeed, for reasons of her own, is disposed actively to encourage the step. Italy, on the other hand, is very strongly opposed to an appeal and it is to Rome that the Chancellor looks most anxiously for support in his difficulties. The position would be almost amusing were it not so serious, but the circumstances do not alter the fact that the worst disservice would be done to Geneva by bringing the Austrian question before the League Council just now. Berlin has left Geneva and would treat any representations just as she has done the direct protests from Vienna. Action instead of words would be perilous all round.

HUMANE SLAUGHTER

The decision to introduce humane-killers to Hongkong's abattoirs offers a great temptation to facetiousness. It is, for instance, a safe assumption that the animals affected by efforts to provide for them a more merciful ending would be more appreciative of a campaign in favour of vegetarianism. Some, too, would ask whether this method of slaughter is to be restricted to cows, and if so, why? Such issues apart, the action of the Government will be generally approved—as long as the humane slaughterer does not shoot the public's pork also. In that case, there will be residents who will experience unexpected meatless days. The effect of shooting on a pig has to be seen to be believed.

WOMAN AND HER MONEY

By EDITH SHACKLETON

SOMETIMES I think it should be taught in schools, to children in their first flush of pride at dealing with "£ s. d. sums," that money remains the same whether it is used by a man or a woman. If this fact were put clearly into the minds of little boys, perhaps they would not grow up into men who write letters like that in which Mr. C. Martin, informing the Editor of the News Chronicle, that women "waste their wages," thus supplemented his sweeping charge: "See how they waste their wages. A man earning wages will keep two or more, and spend his wages on houses, furniture, fuel and food. A girl spends hers on 'perms,' powder, lipstick and chocolates, ice cream and ice-rinks. A man spends his wages in ways that increase employment. A girl's spending leaves builders, mechanics and labourers workless."

But who builds the working girl's ice rinks and chocolate factories? Who pays the rates and rents of her half dressing and ice cream establishments? Are her purveyors furnished free of charge on the grounds that they cater for women only? And how many young men clerks keep houses of their own or directly employ builders, mechanics and labourers? The assumption that all young women are fed, housed and clothed by their male relatives and given their wages, if any, for pocket money may be comfortable, but is about as intelligent as a belief that all women wear elastic sided boots.

The core of this complaint is probably in that phrase "a man earning wages will keep two or more" for it is an unusual man who can work alongside a woman without becoming morosely conscious that he "keeps" somebody while she possibly does not. Yet the probability is that he "keeps" a wife he chose and who is his heart's delight as well as his housekeeper, counsellor and helper in all his enterprises while his woman colleague supports some aged, infirm or feeble relative she would never have chosen as housemate or as hobby, and is perhaps a hindrance socially and domestically rather than an asset or a help.

Woman's career as wife may have become easier in our own generation, but as daughter it has grown more responsible and difficult.

To parental eyes daughters who have fought their way into business or professions are still "the girls," to be depended on for companionship and assistance of every sort, though the sons have gone free long ago.

This is one of the reasons why women have not yet enough money to spend.

For, in fact, women as yet do so little spending entirely according to their own desires that it is far too early to announce general tendencies in feminine ways of self-indulgence.

Mass luxury spending is as yet nearly all done by men.

Women have only just begun to make any difference to the cluttered trade, and if men were all suddenly deprived of pocket-money the football grounds and dog racing tracks would be deserted, and nearly all the public houses might be closed. So indeed, might be the fashionable golf clubs, yacht clubs, racecourses and restaurants.

No enterer would know just how to lure women's money if women, in an instant, became the pocket-moneyed sex.

It might be futile to multiply dress shops and beauty shops for there is no sound evidence that fashion and cosmetics are the chief desires of the average woman.

At present most women spend a lot of time in planning, making and choosing clothes, but this is because they can save money that way, not always because they would rather have clothes than concerts or hyacinth bulbs or foreign travel.

No man, by taking thought and buying a remnant and a paper pattern, can fit himself out cheaply in raiment which will pass muster with the costly products of Savile-row.

I have noticed that most of my women friends, as they became successful in their professions, thought less about clothes as they began to be able to pay more for them. The things they honestly like to spend money on are at least as diverse as they would be among a group of men. One will expend a carefully hoarded twenty guineas on a water softener while another gives more for a Tang horse—both are stingy about taxicabs.

I cannot give myself the cheapest hair-wave without a wretched feeling of extravagance, but when I have any spending money I can't disperse it without a pang on claret or Georgian silver.

Mr. Martin complains that women do not support builders, mechanics and labourers, but what about all the splinter savings that go into the building societies?

Women have never yet had enough money to spend according to their own desires, yet the laying out of income is one of the subjects in which they are, generally speaking, better trained than men.

The small boy is allowed to lose or waste his pennies, while in all but the most advanced nurseries, the little girl is advised to save hers to buy mummy a birthday present.

The schoolgirl is entrusted with the partial laying out of her dress allowance long before the school-boy is.

All through the wage-earning classes the housewife administers the income and does out pocket-money to the husband. No man who wishes to preserve an illusion that woman is a money-wasting creature should ever make a tour of observation through the stores and shopping streets when they are most freest.

The Very Idea!

THE EARLY WORM.

By Eddie Kelly, the Bird.

SPEAKING of married life reminds us that Hongkong never has a "Be Kind to Worms" Week.

We know a man who was so cruel to worms that a magistrate sent him to prison for a week on an S.P. C.A. complaint. He used to put a worm's tail into its mouth and watch it swallow itself.

And to think that that man was once an innocent little babe, lounging about on his mother's knee!

As for us, we can say with a certain amount of pride that we've never taken worms.

We have taken everything else, from pills to mustard baths and aspirins, but so far we haven't shown any serious and determined hankering for worms.

Speaking of worms reminds us of the American prohibitionist who demonstrated with one.

"Folks," he said, "with this poor worm I will show you the evil influences of whisky. See, I place the worm in the glass of whisky. He wriggles. It is burning him up. He dies. Poor little worm. Ah, the evils of drink!"

The little lady in the front seat applauded.

"Tell me, doctor," she said, "will any brand of whisky do that?"

"Yes," said the demonstrator.

"Thank the Lord. I've been troubled with worms for years."

We, too, know a great deal about worms. There are two kinds of worms. Long worms and short worms.

The long worms can be easily distinguished from the short worms; the head of the short worm being invariably closer to the tail than in the case of the long worm.

It has long puzzled scientists how the worm finds a hole to fit in.

Nature in its awful wisdom has provided holes of various sizes all over Hongkong. All the worm has to do is to tramp about to find a hole that fits.

We know of one worm with golfe that walked from Castle Peak to Quarry Bay before it found a suitable home. Even then it was only a semi-detached home, being next to the quarry.

The grub is very close to the worm and could quite easily be taken for a worm by anyone who has never seen a worm.

The only difference between the two is that one has more legs and more hair on its chest than the other. The grub is also better upholstered.

Some grubs may be found in dornest log, although how the little chap finds those great, big logs has got beat.

We cannot speak with authority on the subject, but presume that the grub lies back and then pulls the log itself.

The centipede is really a our-plated worm, equipped with a knife and fork at one end, has a lot of legs, an inch number, and how it keeps it. We won't bother about it as you start thinking about it like that, you go mad as round in circles barking a dog.

quanted by their rous-tomers.

Ho should never ex-to study the dutifully pressions of the red studying flesh, fowl difference between the sprouts and cauliflower.

Is this the impex that knows nothing of the value of money and can't to the common good?

Around them men can with every art delicious devise, delicate, and fruits, shinning such exquisite. Slowly lose vironments. Lack of training, but not.

They are ed to laying out other. Spending little. acco. their own.

"I don't know—I just don't seem to enjoy anything any more."

BELGIUM MOURNS
LATE KING

he grew in stature in the eyes of all who had dealings with him.

A PLEDGE FULFILLED.

He was patient in suffering and restrained in triumph.

Through the whole of that terrible time he was faithful to the charge of his kingship.

Throughout the years of his reign, King Albert had fulfilled the pledge given in the first speech he delivered from the Throne when he declared "A Sovereign must be unceasingly attentive to the voice of the country and watch with sympathy over the state of the humbled. He is the servant of law and the guardian of social peace."

The Prime Minister added: "In bidding him farewell, one can but say he was a fine man, a great King and a noble citizen."

COURAGE AND WISDOM.

On behalf of the opposition, Major Attlee also expressed hearty sympathy, describing the late King as a man who in adversity and war displayed high courage and constancy, and in the difficult times of peace, wisdom and understanding.

Other speakers included Sir Herbert Samuel, who during the early stages of the war was the Minister responsible for the welfare of the quarter of a million Belgian refugees who came to Britain, and who, after the Armistice, went to Belgium as the special commissioner appointed to aid in her restoration.

LORD'S TRIBUTES.

In the House of Lords, Lord Hailsham said that King Albert in physical perfection, intellectual ability and in greatness of character was a prominent figure in Europe, and the world, especially at this moment, could ill afford his loss.

He expressed profound sympathy for the Queen and prayed that the Duke of Brabant, so suddenly called to take on a great responsibility, might be strengthened by the same courage, wisdom and understanding with which his father was endowed.

Tributes were also paid by Lord Ponsonby and Earl Reading.

The London County Council, standing in silence, to-day passed a resolution of sympathy with the Belgian Royal family and nation.

A Requiem Mass will take place at Westminster Cathedral on Wednesday of next week.—British Wireless.

ST. MARY'S SCHOOL.

ANNUAL PRIZE-GIVING HELD YESTERDAY

St. Mary's School at Kowloon held its annual prize-giving ceremony yesterday afternoon, there being present a large gathering of the Catholic clergy, parents and friends of the pupils.

Prior to the presentation of the annual report by Fr. Riganti on behalf of the Mother Superior, the pupils contributed to a concert programme, of which the chief feature, "Dick Whittington and His Cat," was such appreciated for its able rendering.

The Director of Education, Mr. N. L. Smith, gave away the awards, and at the conclusion complimented and thanked the Mother Superior, her Staff and the pupils for the excellent entertainment provided.

The Headmistress's Report reads as follows:

The School year 1933 opened with 475 pupils in roll, yet the highest attendance was reached in February with 503.

The health of the pupils was good throughout the year. Dr. H. W. Wong inspected the school in December. He reported with great satisfaction as to ventilation and arrangement of the classes, and was very favourably impressed by the spacious grounds, a portion of which is very well shaded by large old trees, under which in fair weather open-air classes are frequently held.

Inspection.

Mr. A. O. Brown, Inspector of English Schools, inspected St. Mary's on October 19 and 20. He found equipment good, discipline excellent, pronunciation steadily improving. Botany has been introduced, and is given a good deal of attention. The younger children were taught to illustrate simple sentences by sketches on the black-boards or in their note-books. Some of these sketches were very ingenious.

Another pleasing feature was the frequent use of concrete examples in teaching elementary arithmetic. The book work is again very good indeed. Dictations and Composition tests were satisfactory. Mrs. Brown was very pleased with the needlework.

University Examinations.

Eighteen pupils were presented for the Senior Local, and 17 passed, one obtaining Distinction in English, and another in Biblical Knowledge.

Before closing we wish to tender our grateful thanks to the Director of Education, whose presence here this evening is to the staff, pupils and friends of St. Mary's a great honour and a great pleasure. We also wish to thank one and all those who helped us to make this year a successful one.—(Applause.)

SERIOUS INJURIES.

MRS. OXBERRY HURT
IN COLLISION.

A motor car accident attended by serious consequences to a European woman passenger occurred in Nathan Road at its junction with Jordan Road yesterday afternoon shortly before four o'clock.

The lady passenger of the car was Mrs. J. H. Oxberry, proprietress of the Palace Hotel, Kowloon who was badly injured when she was thrown out of the car as it collided with the traffic beacon at the junction of the two roads. She was picked up unconscious and rushed to the Kowloon Hospital where, it is stated, her condition necessitated an operation.

The mishap occurred when the motor car in which Mrs. Oxberry was travelling, was overtaking two buses moving in the same direction as the car. Mr. A. Bower, manager of the Palace Hotel, was the driver of the car, returning to the Palace Hotel.

After following the two buses through the controlled area Mr. Bower attempted to pass them as they were about to cross Jordan Road. One of the buses, however, turned towards the Vehicular Ferry Pier. Mr. Bower was unable to pull up and was forced to swerve sharply to avoid the bus.

The car collided with the beacon and Mrs. Oxberry, who was sitting in the seat beside the driver, was thrown heavily into the roadway. She struck her head and received a nasty cut.

The car was badly damaged.

Three Far Eastern Anglican Bishops have arrived in the Colony for the purpose of holding a conference with the Right Rev. Ronald Hall, Bishop of Hongkong, this week. They are the Right Rev. Gouverneur Franck Monner, Protestant Bishop of the Philippines, the Right Rev. Basil Cleboy Roberts, Bishop of Singapore, and the Right Rev. Noel Darling Hudson, Bishop of Labuan and Sarawak.

HIGHLY SKILLED
ACTINGFeatures Presentation
By A.D.C.

Highly skilled acting makes the presentation of "Ten Minute Alibi" one of the most praiseworthy efforts in the long history of the Hongkong Amateur Dramatic Club, and it is not surprising that this exciting drama, which is now playing at the Haymarket Theatre, London, is also attracting large attendances at the Naval Canteen Theatre.

There is a refreshing originality about the story which is only equalled by the clever work of the players. The cast is without a weakness, and the characters, as they gradually reveal themselves make fascinating studies.

The highest credit is due to the cast and Mrs. Fay Grossman for the best entertainment Hongkong has had for a long time.

Further performances of this Anthony Armstrong gem will be given to-night, as well as on Friday and Saturday evening, starting at 9.15 p.m.

COTTON RACE

VITAL CONFERENCE WITH LANCASHIRE

London, Feb. 20. The attention of the whole of Lancashire is centred upon the resumption of the Anglo-Japanese Cotton Conference to-morrow.

At the conclusion of the talks last week, the Lancashire delegation handed the Japanese delegates a note very clearly setting forth Lancashire's contention that any agreement reached should cover world markets. This is in direct conflict with the Japanese opening gambit, which took the form of a demand for the limitation of any agreement to Crown Colonies.

Such a limitation, which is not by any means acceptable to Lancashire interests, would mean that only ten per cent. of Lancashire's export market would be subject to any agreement reached at the present discussions.

To-morrow it is expected that the Japanese will reveal how far they are prepared to advance from their opening position, but the latest indications are that their delegation is not prepared to concede much.

Examination of cotton exports to Crown Colonies reveals the staggering advance of the Japanese trade in West Africa, which is Lancashire's most important export market. Lancashire exports declined last year from 159,000,000 yards to 102,000,000 yards and notice was given some months ago to denounce the "most favoured nation clause" as a step towards atomizing the tide of Japanese competition.

Startling Inroads. Japan made equally startling inroads in other colonies. In Ceylon Lancashire exports declined from 32,100,000 yards in 1927 to 15,800,000 yards in 1932, while the Japanese figures increased from 5,100,000 to 40,400,000 yards.

Japanese exports to the Sudan increased from 35,000,000 yards in 1929 to 42,200,000 yards in 1932, while Lancashire's exports fell from 11,100,000 to 6,600,000 yards.

The Japanese trade in Kenya and Uganda rose between 1928 and 1932 from 14,600,000 yards to 80,000,000 yards, the Lancashire trade falling from 9,500,000 to 5,700,000 yards.

In the same period in Tanganyika, imports of Japanese cotton rose from 9,200,000 to 21,900,000 yards, Lancashire trade being reduced to half its volume, and standing at 4,600,000 yards.

Lancashire exports to Hongkong last year fell from 62,866,800 yards to 18,618,300 yards.—Reuter.

LABOUR CHARGE
UNEMPLOYMENT BILL
CAUSES STRIFE

London, Feb. 20. The climax in the fight on the Unemployment Bill in the House of Commons will be reached to-day with the discussion of the powers proposed for the assistance of the Board in the administration of the dole, and especially of the famous Means Test.

It is an old accusation that candidates, especially in municipal elections, bought votes with extravagant promises to the unemployed. The Bill will seek to check this by creating a Board of permanent officials to take relief out of the hands of local authorities.

The Labourites denounce the Board as anti-Democratic, a form of slavery and a Fascist dictatorship.

There was a storm yesterday when Labourites declared that no permanent official treats a poor family with consideration. Government members, retorting, stated that as the Government had accepted the responsibility for all unemployed, as Labourites had long insisted, it must control expenditure.

Many Conservatives, however, desire a more generous scale of relief, particularly in respect to children's allowances. Several amendments have been tabled and the Labourites contend that the mere fact that a person is unemployed entitles him to relief without investigation.—Our Own Correspondent.

U.S. AIR MAIL
CONTRACTS.

ARMY BEGINS TO TAKE OVER

Washington, Feb. 20. Following the cancellation of the air mail contracts the Army has now taken over the entire air mail service.

A blizzard caused the cancellation of scheduled flights in the eastern area, but most of the middle western flights were completed without incident.—United Press.

New Contracts.

Washington, Feb. 20. In the Senate, Senator O'Mahoney presented a resolution providing that the holders of the cancelled air mail contracts be permitted to bid on routes supplying and supplementing the Army air mail service.

The Administration indicated that it would not oppose the resolution, which is interpreted to mean that the Administration intends gradually to return the air mail services to private operators.—United Press.

Checking Profits.

Washington, Feb. 20. President Roosevelt has instructed the Treasury to submit to the House Naval Committee the income tax returns of all aeroplane manufacturers who have received navy contracts since 1920 in an effort to determine the extent of their profits.—United Press.

ARE GLASGOW RANGERS FLAGGING IN THE RACE?

(By "The Pilgrim")

For all but eight clubs the glamour and dash, the worry and excitement of cup-tie football are over for a season and the more important if less enterprising matter of League matches claim their attention.

Derby are again presented with an opportunity to make margin though I doubt whether they will have an easy task in overcoming Wednesday in view of their recent progress. The Baseball ground where the Rams play will be overcrowded by fans of both clubs.

I do not think Arsenal will do better than force a division at Middlesbrough, whilst Huddersfield who go to Leicester, will be fully extended if they intend to make a serious challenge for supremacy.

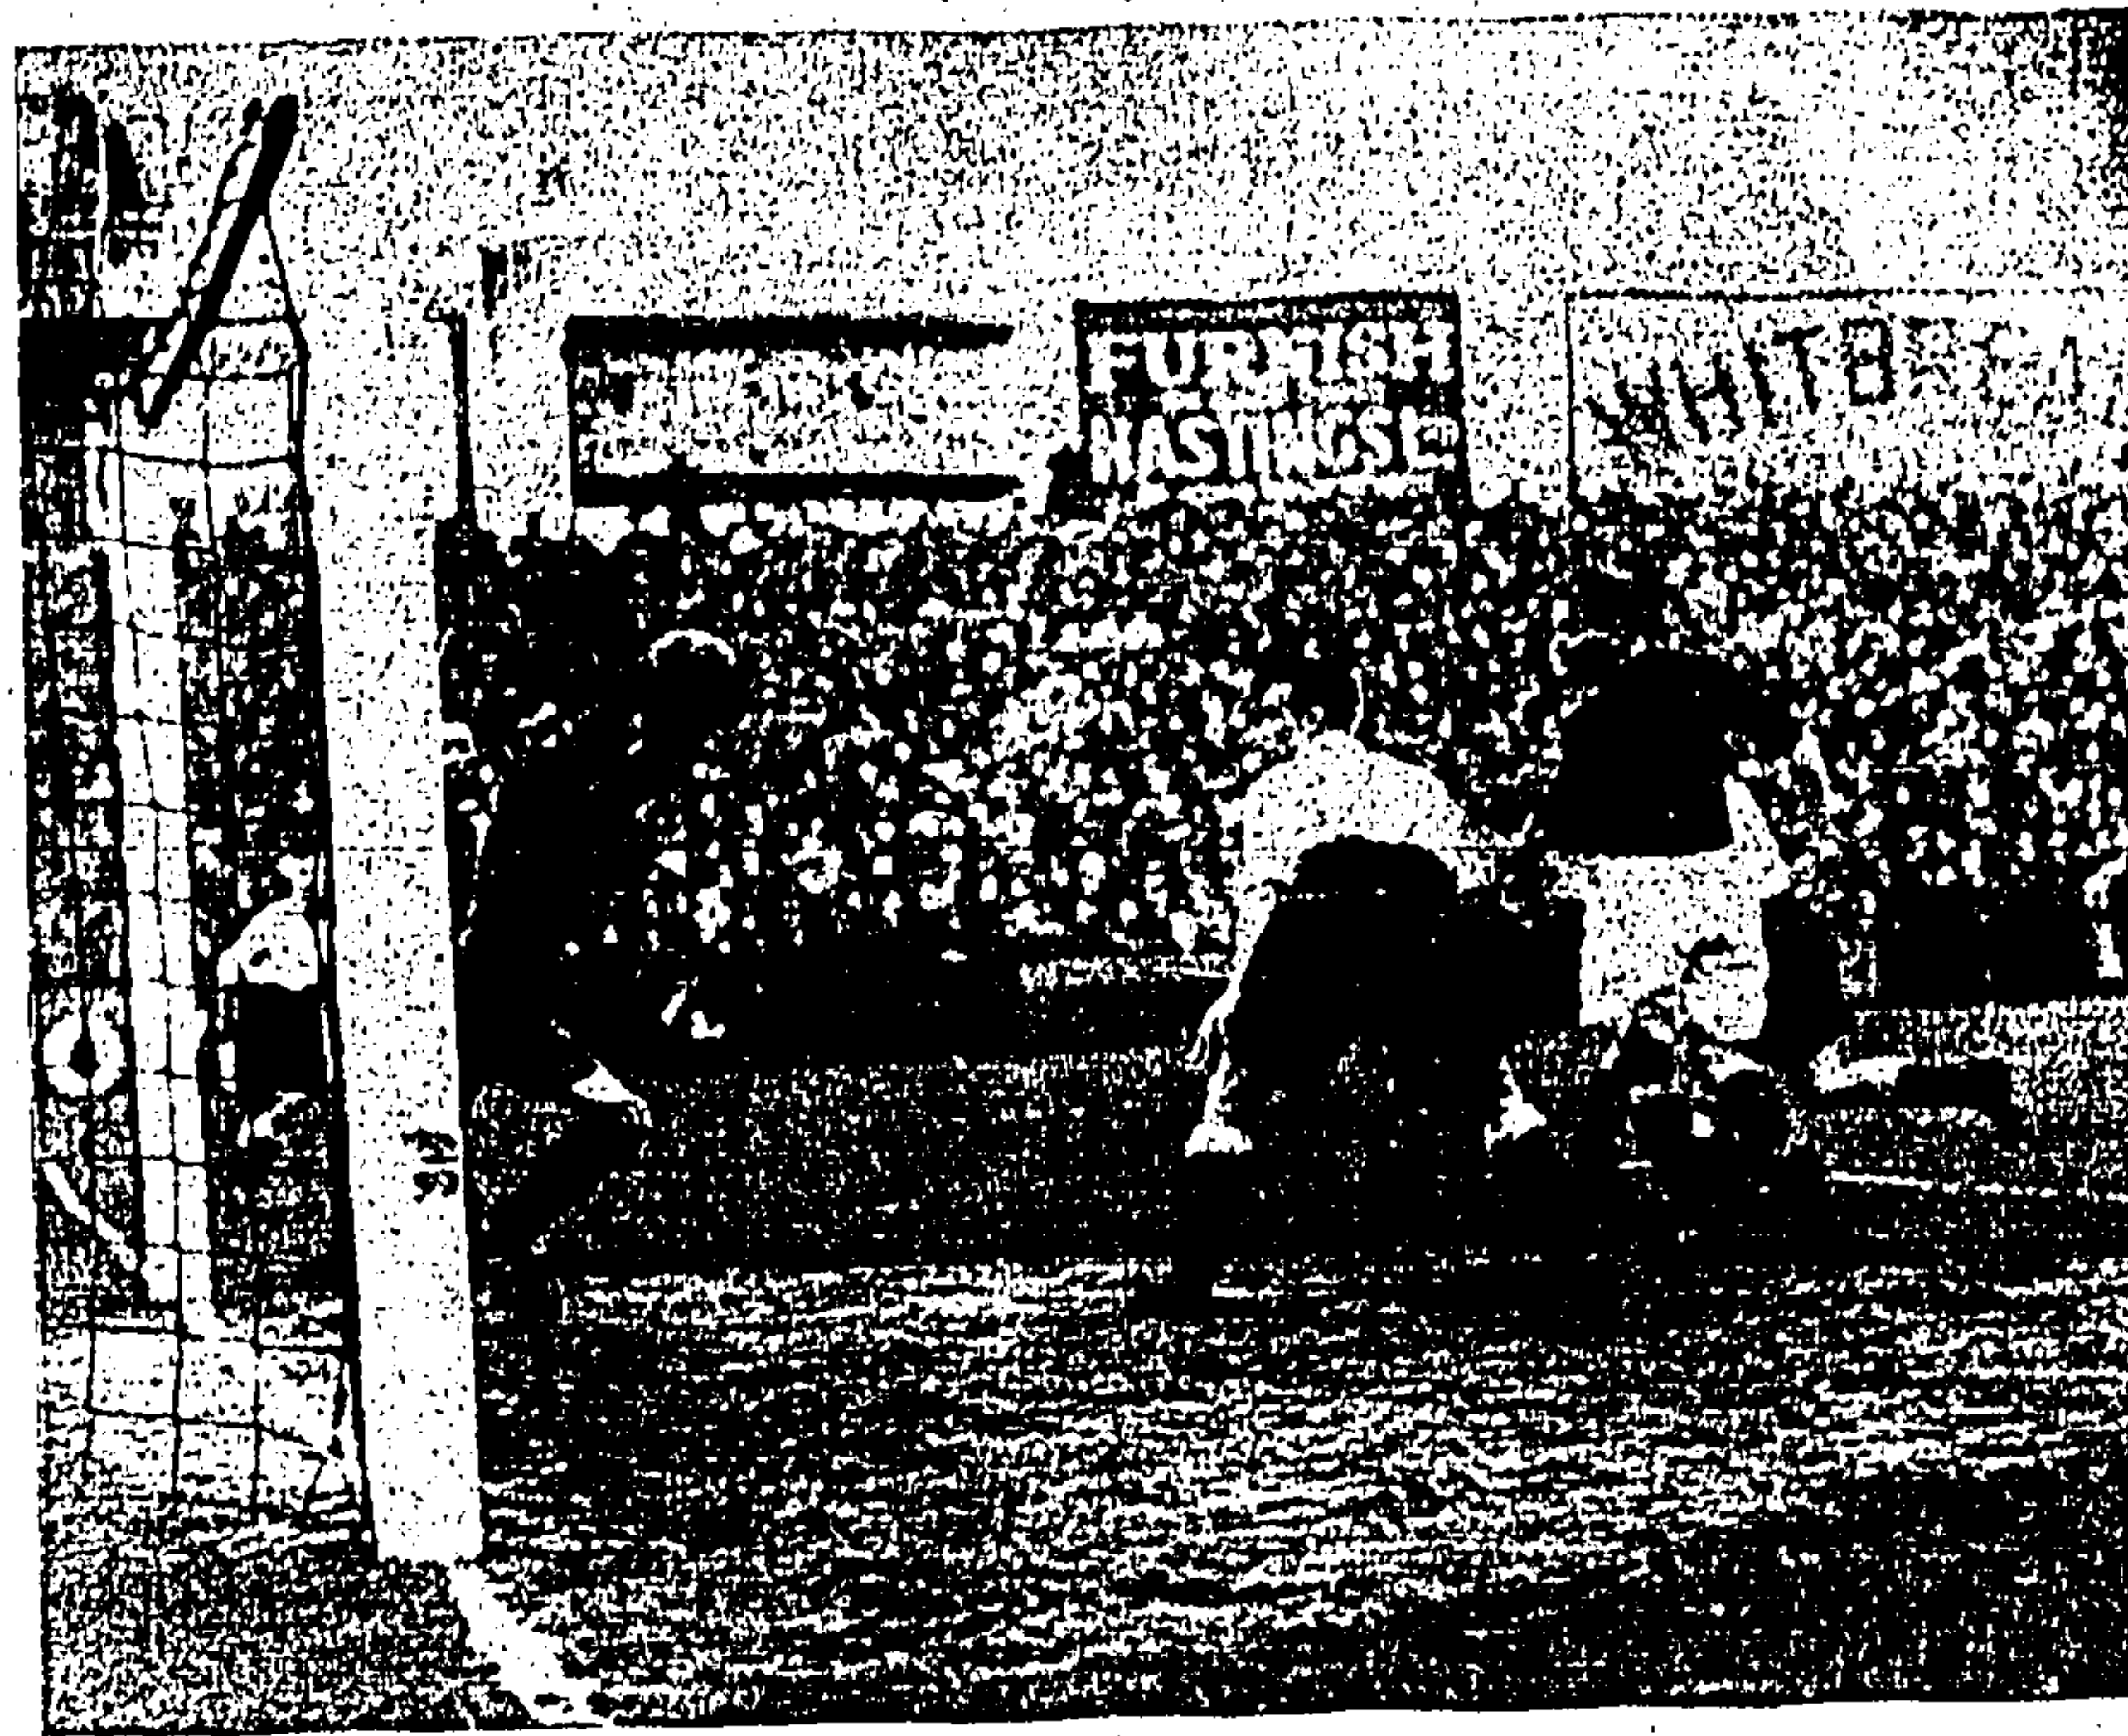

The 'Spurs-Portsmouth match will be in the nature of a friendly game as I cannot imagine either of these cup-contestants risking injury to men they will sorely need for the quarter finals.

Difficult For The Prophet

Many home wins are indicated by the fixture list, though if there are last week's crop of surprises to confound the prophet, forecasters will soon be out of business. I think the end of the season makes the calculation of results even more difficult as there are more new factors to reckon with after two or three months of intensive play.

Grimsby will be hard put to it to maintain their fine record at Plymouth, and Lincoln can expect little good from their engagement at Bradford City. Norwich are at home and they should increase their margin of points by defeating their closest rivals—Queen's Park Rangers.

In the third division I can only back Chesterfield for a win away though I am not sure that Walsall will not get the better

END OF THE SEASON DRAWING NEAR

SOME REFLECTIONS: INTERESTING ITEMS FROM THE VARIOUS CLUBHOUSES

(By "The Pilgrim")

THERE are less than a dozen matches to go before the close of the 1933-34 season and already the indications of the finish-up point to some startling changes from last May.

ARSENAL may or may not—probably not—finish at the top again, but they certainly will not collect the 58 points they reached last season.

UNLESS Chelsea buck up tremendously they also will not total the 35 which saved them from relegation.

VILLA are making a last minute push and we may yet see them among the first three or four.

THE rise of Wednesday during the last six weeks when they have been under new management, is almost phenomenal compared with their collapse after October.

SCARCELY one of the lower half placings in the 1932-33 season have shown much improvement and the Spurs who finished second to the leaders in the Second Division, have ploughed their way to one of the top positions.

SIMILARLY Brentford have risen from second place in the Southern Section to a similar high place in the next division.

BLACKPOOL and Bolton, the two relegated clubs from the senior division are holding their own, but Manchester United continue on the downward path.

CHESTERFIELD are almost assured of going back to the second division after an absence of only one season and although they have dropped off slightly their great form of a few weeks ago should enable them to finish up strongly.

TO revert to other things I should mention that Portsmouth are making a splendid fight against the adversity of the draw.

Three Goals For Champion Jockey

IN INTER-HONG FOOTBALL

Playing for Jardines against the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank on the Club ground yesterday, Leo Frost, the local champion jockey was in fine shooting form and scored three goals, playing a prominent part in the defeat of the Bank by four clear goals.

The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank forwards did quite a considerable amount of attacking, but they lacked finish, and although several opportunities were presented they were unable to take advantage of them. L. G. Robertson, playing at centre-half, was the outstanding man for them; A. D. Lawson, in goal, was quite safe, and was responsible for keeping down the score against his side. The goals which were netted against him, would have defeated any goal-keeper.

Jardines forward line, composed of Butler, Hill, Frost, Nicholls and Dimmen, showed a very good understanding, and was also much faster than that opposing. Their defence also put in some good work; while White, in goal, had very little work to do.

The first half was evenly contested, only one goal being scored by L. G. Frost, but in the second half, the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank was completely outplayed, and three more goals were added, the first being through Nicholls, and the other two by Frost.

The teams were as follows:

Jardines.—White; Urquhart and Ralton; Stevenson, Panchoon and Duncan; Butler, Hill, Frost, Nicholls and Dimmen. Reserves: Chadderton and Allan-Baich.

H.K. and S. Bank.—Lawson; Bradford and Cummings; Jardine, Robertson and Moutrie; Stillard, Stewart, Turner, King and Allen. Reserves: Browning and Birch.

TO PLAY AUSTRALIANS

COLONY'S RUGBY XV CHOSEN

GAME ARRANGED FOR FRIDAY

As announced at the beginning of the week, the Australian Universities' rugby fifteen which is returning to the Colony by the Kitano Maru, will meet a local side at Happy Valley on Friday afternoon, commencing at 4.45 p.m.

The visiting team, which has just concluded a tour of Japan, will arrive in the Colony on Friday morning and will be the guests of the Australian and New Zealand Association at a dinner at Lane Crawford's Restaurant. After the match in the afternoon the team will be entertained to a dinner by the Hongkong Football Club.

The departure of H.M.S. Medway on exercises has deprived the Colony of some of the best players but quite a strong side will nevertheless be fielded against the tourists. The following players have been selected for the Colony fifteen:

J. P. Whitham (Club); J. J. Ferguson (Club); Lieut. A. G. Martin (Army); L. G. Robertson (Club) and G. P. Lammert (Club); M. W. Turner (Club) and H. C. Moeke (Club); A. F. Walkden (Club); L. C. Pascoe (Navy); Pte. Lloyd (Army); Lieut. B. L. E. Hebert (Army); I. H. Bradford (Club); D. McLehlan (Club); C. C. Suther (Navy) and Lieut. M. Brown (Navy).

The reserves will be:—Pte. Simmonds (Army); L/Cpl. Hardy (Army); Lieut. E. G. Irving (Navy) and Lieut. E. Ashley Brown (Navy). Dr. J. A. R. Selby, the club captain, will again referee the match.

previous goal total and made their first upward move for three months.

THE much-discussed Priestly is gaining form while losing weight he can ill spare at Stamford Bridge. He may however become the mainstay of the side if he can become acclimatized to the local "atmosphere."

THE uncommon infringement of a "goalkeeper carrying" by the Wanderers' keeper led to a free kick which earned a division of points for Sunderland.

DULL TENNIS AT CRICKET CLUB

CASSUMBHOY & RAZACK AGAIN PLAY WELL

SEVERAL ATTRACTIVE GAMES THIS AFTERNOON

FOUR OF LAST EIGHT BRACKETS SHOULD BE FILLED

(By "Veritas").

Tennis was dull at the Cricket Club yesterday where a short programme of four doubles matches in the open championship was played off.

On the No. 1 court, Ho Ka-lau and Tsui Wai-pui were concerned in a very disappointing encounter against F. H. Kwok and S. W. Liang, winning 6-2, 6-2 after some very commonplace exchanges.

Interest in the match was kept alive by the duels between Kwok and Ho, the former's fierce forehand drives being countered by Ho's stolid volleying, which eventually decided the issue.

Tsui Wai-pui was decidedly variable and lacked control. Liang was also but a shadow of the player who gave Cassumbhoi such a good game in the first round of the singles.

TSUI OFTEN PASSED.

Kwok thoroughly enjoyed himself, and might have met with more success had he mixed his shots and found a better length in lobbing. Occasionally his powerful forehand drives, delivered with the full force of the racket and with the whole weight of his body, caught the winners napping. He passed Tsui several times.

Ho Ka-lau played his customary steady game, and achieved the task of covering up Tsui's errors with distinction.

Tsui was often caught in two minds about his shot and did not cover the court at all well. Liang was weak in ground strokes and was frequently caught on the wrong foot.

The best tennis of the day was played by Cassumbhoi and Razack, and this, following on their attractive display in the first round, prompts one to believe that they will give the Rumjahn cousins a good match in the quarter-finals.

Luk Chun-cheung and Wong Shui-wing, although holding their own in the rallies, had not the finishing shots of the I.R.C. pair and this alone was responsible for the scores of 6-1, 6-1. Cassumbhoi and Razack were practically errorless, and whenever they advanced to the net it was to bring off a spectacular coup.

TSUI'S CLEVER TENNIS.

Guest and Hyde, the K.C.C. first division league couple, offered but little resistance to Willie Hung and Lu Tak-cheuk and were easily beaten in straight sets. The K.C.C. pair did not play with the same understanding as their opponents and were often caught spread-eagled.

Tsui Ping-fan was the outstanding player in the three set match with Tsui Yun-pui against Lu Tak-lam and Lau Man-ching. His lobbing and volleying were excellent, and he and Tsui should have won in straight sets. Tsui was seen to most advantage in the final set, when thanks largely to his initiative, the losers found themselves 1-4 in arrears. Tsui Yun-pui remained perfectly steady and has considerably toned down his doubles game to advantage.

Lau was a weak link in the final set, and the winners wisely concentrated on him. Lu made very few mistakes, but was afforded small chance of taking an active part in the exchanges. Some of the rallies were featured by excellent tennis, but all of the contestants had their bad moments, with Lau the chief sufferer.

Second and third round singles offer several attractions this afternoon, and at least four of the last eight brackets should be filled. The most important tie is between S. A. Rumjahn and Lai Kwong-tsun, the Canton challenger, Lai, who has developed his game on the principle of hard hitting, will probably find Rumjahn too steady. Furthermore a fast game is all to Sirdar's liking and it will be surprising if he loses a set.

HUNG'S TASK.

W. C. Hung will be given a real opportunity of showing his full capabilities as he meets Duff. Hung's chief concern will be to cover the court fast enough to deal with Duff's very early drives and hard volleys.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Lu Tak-cheuk and W. C. Hung beat Hyde and Guest 6-2, 6-1.

Cassumbhoi and Razack beat Luk Chun-cheung and Wong Shui-wing 6-1, 6-1.

Tsui Yun-pui and Tsui Ping-fan beat Lu Tak-lam and Lau Man-ching 6-2, 6-8.

Ho Ka-lau and Tsui Wai-pui beat F. H. Kwok and S. W. Liang 6-2, 6-2.

TO-DAY'S MATCHES.

SINGLES.

Lieut. Miers v Ho Ka-lau. Cassumbhoi v Hoare. Cannon v Ng Kam-chuen. Hung v Duff.

S. A. Rumjahn v Lai Kwong-tsun. Wright v Tam Yoc-fong. Tsui Wai-pui v Owen-Hughes.

DOUBLES.

Goldman and Fincher v M. K. and M. W. Lo.

C. A. Wright comes up against Tam's forehand drive, and if he can withstand it, he has just a chance of pulling off the match. Probably Wright's best tactics will be to lob, as Tam is still deficient overhead.

Cassumbhoi will again be on view, and is up against Lieut. Hoare, whom I expect him to beat, as he will find plenty of opportunities of getting up to the net, the position from where he beat Razack last week. If Hoare can force Cassumbhoi to a baseline duel, the Navy player has just a chance of surprising his opponent.

Tsui Wai-pui's display yesterday did not invite confidence, but it is not conceivable that he will allow Owen-Hughes to prevent him from entering the quarter-finals.

One doubles encounter in elated the postponed tie between Goldman and Fincher and the Lo brothers. Whether the latter pair will be fit enough to take the court is a matter of doubt. It is more likely that last year's finalists will receive a walk-over as both M.K. and M.W. Lo are under doctor's orders.

FRIENDLY HOCKEY.

Borderers Defeat The Y.M.C.A. Eleven.

In a friendly game of hockey at King's Park yesterday, the South Wales Borderers defeated the Y.M.C.A. by three goals to two. John (2) and Halford netted for the Borderers, and P. Lammert and Brown for the Y.M.C.A.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

The beginner always finds it difficult to recognize a squeeze play, since there never have been set rules on how to recognize one, and there are so many different types. Of course the most difficult of all squeezes to recognize and to execute properly is the triple squeeze—where you squeeze both opponents. Between them, they must try to protect three suits. If the squeeze is applied properly, they find it impossible to do so. Here is one of the triple squeeze plays that came up at the recent national championship tournament in Cincinnati.

West's opening bid of one spade is rather light, but the fact that he does make an original bid helps him and his partner to arrive at a game contract.

The Play

South opened the queen of hearts. I have found that the opening of the jack and x, especially at no trump, often will prove beneficial, but the queen and x usually has proved to be a losing play, as it does in this particular hand.

West won with the king, and the seven of diamonds was returned. North showed out, discarding the ten of clubs and East, the declarer, won the trick with the queen.

East then could take the finesse of the trump in dummy, North discarding a heart.

A small club was returned, North winning with the queen. North returned a small heart, and

USE OF SILVER

FORBES HONGKONG MAN'S VIEWS

London, Feb. 20.

The Times to-day issued a special supplement on silver. Mr. David Landale, formerly managing director in Hongkong of Jardine, Matheson and Co., contributed an article on Far Eastern trade in the issue. He emphasises that it is impossible to raise commodity prices, generally, until silver is more extensively used.

For the countries interested in Far Eastern trade, this is a better policy than tariffs and quotas, Mr. Landale says.—Reuter.

East finessed the ten, which held the trick. The five of diamonds was led and won in dummy with the king, North discarding a spade.

A small club was returned, North played the king and declarer trumped with the six of diamonds. He then led the ace of diamonds, picking up South's last trump. A small club was discarded from dummy.

North was squeezed—he could not let go a heart or declarer's ace and six would be good, so he released the ace of clubs, allowing his partner to protect the club suit with the jack.

Declarer now led the ten of diamonds, South dropped the five of clubs, dummy discarded the seven of spades, and North was squeezed in both spades and hearts. He decided, however, to drop the six of spades.

East now led the ace of hearts, which squeezed South. If he let go the jack of clubs, dummy's nine would be good, so he released the three of spades and declarer discarded the nine of clubs from dummy, winning the last three tricks in dummy with the ace, king and eight of spades.

CLEAN FOOTBALL / JOCK SUTHERLAND

FAMOUS PITT COACH

ROUGH football has caused numerous accidents in the past few years. The only way to reduce these injuries is to play the game cleanly. "Jock" Sutherland, famous football coach whose University of Pittsburgh Panthers are leaders in eastern football, has written a series on "Clean Football" for Freckles readers. It will appear as part of this strip several times a week. Here is the first one.

THE sketch at left illustrates the illegal use of hands, arms and legs in blocking. The player facing the reader has pushed his right leg between the legs of his opposing line man and is holding his opponent's leg against his own.

This sometimes results in painful injury to the player who is held, as any action in the line will throw him off balance and under a pile-up.

REAL PROGRESS

BRITISH INDUSTRIES FAIR OPENS

London, Feb. 20. The British Industries Fair was opened yesterday at Olympia White City, London, and at Castle Bromwich, Birmingham. Since the first fair was organised by the Board of Trade in 1915 this annual trade exhibition has grown tenfold and is now the largest national trade fair in the world. Invitations to visit it during the next ten days have been accepted by buyers from 64 different countries. Up to last evening, when the general public were admitted, 1,718 overseas buyers and 5,954 home buyers had visited London sections. These numbers showed a considerable improvement on both home and overseas buyers over last year. At Birmingham the aggregate attendance was 4,130 as compared with 2,330 on the corresponding day last year.

The Duke of York attended a dinner at Mansion House in connection with the opening of the Fair last night when 400 guests, including members of the diplomatic Corps and buyers of many countries were present.

Referring to the trade outlook, Prince George said forces which had had the world in bondage were slackening. Beginnings of a revival of trade were taking place, but the road to recovery was no easy one. Signs were favourable.

"We still have as rich assets and great national resources as the rest of the world, and immense and improved capacity of men and machines to convert those resources into instruments of human well-being," he said.

Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade said they could speak of 1933 as the year in which there was a definite change for the better. One of the

STREET DISTURBANCES DIRECT RESULT

London, Feb. 20. Sir John Gilmour to-day reported in the House of Commons that the number of street disturbances had been doubled in the last three months in consequence of the wearing of uniforms by political parties.

The question, he said, was engaging the serious attention of the Government.

His statement is understood to refer to the growth of the Fascist movement in Britain.—Reuter.

most significant indications of activity was the volume of raw material for use in British factories purchased from abroad. The volume of retail imports of raw material was greater than in the past three years and in regards to wool, hides and timber they were even greater than in 1929.

The export trade had begun to show signs of recovery and commercial agreements, which the Government had concluded during the last year, had contributed to this improvement. Continued satisfactory progress, however, was dependent upon further improvement in world conditions, he added.—British Wireles.

BLIZZARD SWEEPS NEW YORK: SEVENTEEN DEAD

DR. DOLFFUSS TO RELAX FEUD

ANTI-SOCIALIST
DRIVE TO STOP

GENERAL REPRIEVE
EXPECTED

(Special to "Telegraph")

Vienna, Feb. 20.
It is believed that the Austrian Government, following strong representations by Britain, is relaxing its drive against refugee Socialists concerned in the recent disturbances.

Dr. Dollfuss announced this evening that martial law in Austria will be totally raised at seven o'clock to-morrow morning (Wednesday) and the announcement is presumed to denote that the Government will grant a reprieve to all who have not yet been arrested or not yet executed.

Several of the leading members of the Government including Dr. Dollfuss, Major Fey and Dr. Schmitz, were present this afternoon at the Rathausplatz when the funeral took place of forty-nine members of the Government forces who died in the disturbances last week.

The ceremony was performed by Cardinal Innitzer, who paid a warm tribute to the dead.

SEIZURE COMPLICATION.

Meanwhile, an international complication is possible in connection with the Government's intention to confiscate all Austrian Socialist property.

It is now revealed that the Austrian Socialists two years ago assigned sixty per cent. of their property to the Socialist Party of Belgium.

The Belgian Socialists have sent two lawyers to maintain their claim.—Reuter's Special Service.

FOOT OF SNOW IN NEW YORK

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, February 21, 9.28 a.m.)

NEW YORK, FEB. 20.

WRETCHED CONDITIONS HAVE BEEN PRODUCED THROUGHOUT THE NORTH-EASTERN STATES BY THE SWIFT DESCENT OF ARCTIC WEATHER, ACCOMPANIED BY A FIERCE BLIZZARD WHICH HAS CRIPPLED COMMUNICATIONS OVER AN IMMENSE AREA.

Eight inches of snow in New York City caused the worst traffic snarl for years, motor-cars being brought to a standstill and abandoned in scores, while railway services were completely disrupted. At least half a million people, season-ticket holders, were unable to get to their offices to-day.

At least seventeen persons are dead as a direct result of the bitterly cold weather, while Army airmen, attempting to carry the mails, found themselves battling with perilous snowstorms both in the east and west.

One machine crashed at Greenville, South Carolina, but the pilot escaped without injuries and the mail was saved.

Great interest was taken in the performances of the Army fliers on the air mail carrying exploits.

FORCED TO GROUND.

One machine managed to battle its way through extremely foul weather from Cleveland to Newark, but dozens of other machines, both army and commercial, which ventured attempts to defy the weather conditions, were forced to go to ground.

All along the Atlantic seaboard, planes were forced down.

In the South and Middle West, better success marked the army air mail carriers and some of them established new records.

The blizzard raging in New York State has carpeted the entire country with inches of snow, completely disorganising the carriage of food supplies etcetera.—United Press.

MEMORIAL HOME FIRE.

New York, Feb. 20.
The Arctic weather accounted for numerous deaths, including ten widows or daughters of War veterans, in a fire which broke out at the Soldiers' Memorial Home at Brookville, Pennsylvania.

The outbreak soon had the building completely in its grip, trapping many of the inmates.

The firemen were unable to cope with the flames for some considerable time owing to the fact that the hydrants were frozen.

When water was obtainable it froze on the building.

THRILLING RESCUES.

Thrilling rescue scenes were witnessed, but ten of the inmates lost their lives.

All day long driving snowstorms were experienced over a large area, making it extremely difficult for railway travellers to get to town.

The blizzard, preventing hundreds of clerks and operators from reaching Wall Street, caused a delay in the opening of the New York Cotton and Stock Exchanges until 11 a.m.

TRANSPORT DISORDER.

Traffic in the city was disorganised by snow a foot deep in the suburbs and six inches deep in the centre of the city.

All transportation services throughout New Jersey, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania were in complete disorder.—Reuter.

ROYAL ROMANCE

ANOTHER SWEDISH
PRINCE
RENOUNCES RIGHTS

LONDON WEDDING

Stockholm, Feb. 20.

Another Royal romance has come along to distress the Swedish Royal House, with the announcement of the engagement of Prince Sigvard to Miss Erika Patzek, the daughter of a Berlin merchant.

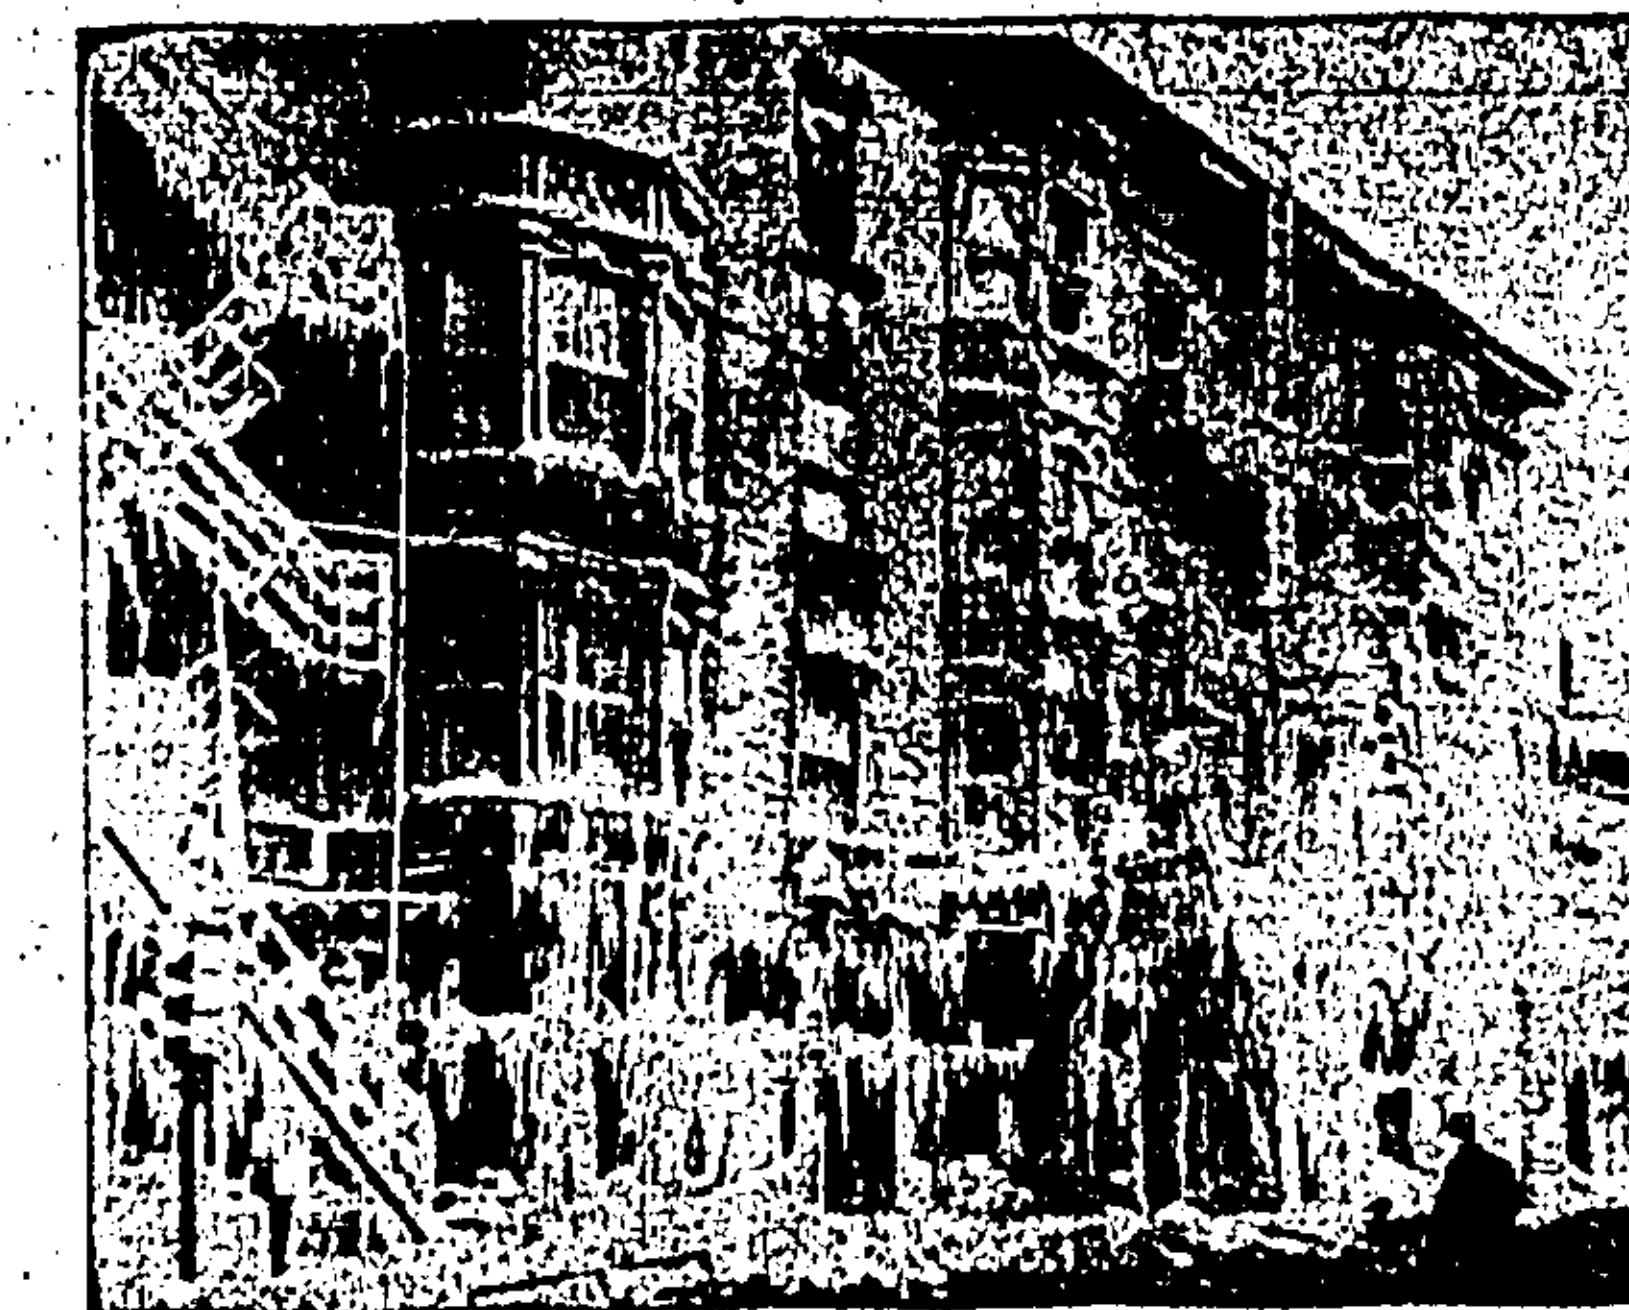

Prince Sigvard is the second son of the Swedish Crown Prince and the engagement has been announced in defiance of the wishes of King Gustav and of the Crown Prince.

The young Prince is following the example of his cousin, Prince Lennart, eldest son of Prince William, the second son of King Gustav. Prince Lennart renounced his rights of succession and titles to marry Miss Karin Nissavand, daughter of a Stockholm business man.

King Gustav has announced that if Prince Sigvard marries without his consent, he will forfeit his royal rights.

The Prince has replied by indicating that he proposes to marry Miss Patzek in London shortly.—Reuter.

The P. and O. liner Raripindi is due here from Shanghai at 6 a.m. on Friday.

A remarkable scene after a fire in the United States during Arctic weather conditions. The water froze almost as soon as it left the hoses and coated the burning building in ice.

GEN. JOHNSON ATTACKS
CRITICS

READY TO ACCEPT
SUGGESTIONS

Washington, Feb. 20.

Likening his critics to Dead Sea apples and their theories to that of Correspondence School cowboys, General Hugh Johnson lustily attacked his opponents during a broadcast speech to-night.

General Johnson's address, in his official capacity as National Recovery Administrator, is heralded as the most important message since the advent of the Blue Eagle.

General Johnson invited everybody with grievances or suggestions concerning N.R.A. policy either to attend a public hearing beginning on February 26 and ending on March 5, to appear privately or to write.

He mentioned that personal assaults or academic conjectures not supported by facts would not be considered.

GENERAL'S CLAIM.

While admitting that there are certain flaws in the N.R.A. codes, General Johnson claimed that three million men had been re-employed and $3,000,000,000 added to their purchasing power. He said that three hundred industries had been given codes and that two hundred more industrial codes were in course of preparation.—Reuter.

FRENCH MONETARY POLICY

ADHERENCE TO OLD
PRINCIPLES

PRICE CONTROL

Paris, Feb. 21.

It was intimated in the Chamber of Deputies last night that the French Government has no intention of following the British and American policies of influencing commodity prices by currency control.

The Government's policy seeks an adjustment of the level of internal and external prices but without currency manipulation.

The method was enunciated by the Finance Minister, M. Germain Martin, in the course of a speech in which he declared that internal prices were high on account of agricultural protection and the results of the war.

LEAST PAINFUL.

The Government would pursue the least painful method of restoring the country's maximum activity, and was convinced that simple devaluation would not bring about an adjustment of prices.

Meanwhile, the Senate has passed a Bill raising the Customs duty on tea from 8.54 francs to 7.75 francs a kilogram, with the object of protecting the French Colonies, especially Indo-China.—Reuter.

Chinese circles declare that the gang intended to assassinate Ma Chan-shan and other military and civil leaders in Tientsin in order to create a reign of terror, in which to seize control of the city.

Secret of Family Happiness

By Olive Roberts Barton

Members of the average family aren't always nice to each other. So often it happens that father, mother and children seem to be waiting for someone's hat to drop, or the chip to fall off a shoulder, or the fat to jump into the fire.

This habit of grouching in families grows so subtly and so swiftly that no one suspects it. If their friends, relatives or neighbours were to hint that all was not serene in their daily life they would be hurt and resentful.

Family Irritability Growing

Yet if one appeared unexpectedly on the threshold at any minute of almost any day when this family is together the chances are there would be a ruckus going on about something, or someone yelling, or someone quietly sulking to himself. If the family in question disdains such plebeian tactics and considers verbal fencing a higher form of combative art than the clencher or the broad sword of noisy quarrelling, things can be quite as uncomfortable.

Wealth, culture, or social position make little difference. The family in which the habit of quarrelling has taken root will go about it in its own way. One can go into a house as quietly serene, seemingly, as a dewy dell on a May morning, yet feel instantly the brittle strain of unfriendliness in every word and gesture.

This irritability and impatience is growing rapidly in American homes. It was almost inevitable for this to happen as individual interests have drifted apart with the years. Moreover, there are too few common ties. Each one comes in tired and the family meets at a time when nerves are not their best. And there is plenty to-day to unnerve the best of us.

Talk the Matter Over

What would be wrong with calling the family together for a council, passing the pipe of peace, and discussing the state of affairs?

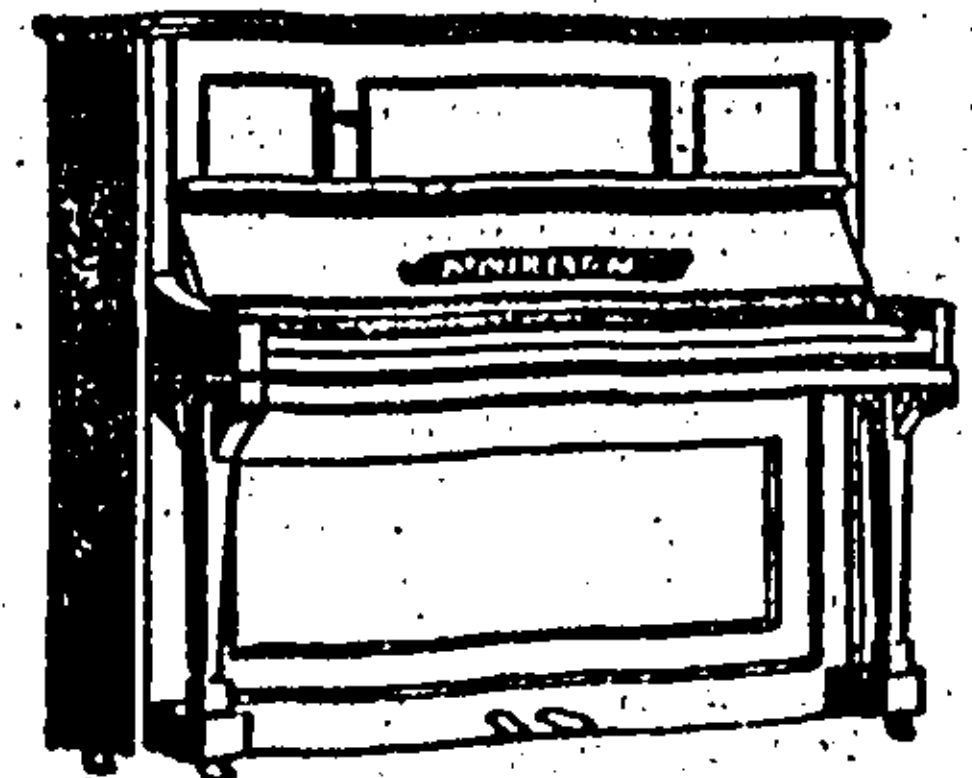

A mother might say, "Children, and you too, Dad, and I myself, have become careless of each other's feelings. We are short tempered and fly off without reason at the slightest thing. We offend where we don't really mean to, we accuse or get suspicious when we should know better, we are disliking, selfish and sour. In fact we often treat each other far less courteously than we would treat complete strangers.

"Let us all try to be kinder, to help each other. We might try to smile and be merry instead of looking like thunder clouds half the time."

And any family that it worth its salt will give three cheers for good old Rutgers and agree to adopt new rules for the home team in the future.

SALESMAN SAM

No Use Being a Pliker!

By Small

Forgotten Sweetheart by MARY RAYMOND

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

BOB WESTON, son of a millionaire, is in love with JOAN WARRING, pretty Memphis girl. He has come to Memphis in connection with a textile plant under construction for his father's company.

BARBARA COURTNEY, society girl, whom he knew in New York, is scheming to win him away from Joan.

PAT, Joan's younger sister, is infatuated with JERRY FURLESTON, son of her employer.

MRS. WARRING, hopeful that her two daughters will marry well and escape the drudgery that has been her lot, has made every effort to give her daughters advantages.

Through Barbara, Joan is invited on a house party. Barbara realises Joan will be ill at ease among so many strangers and hopes Bob will be disillusioned. From the very beginning of the house party things go wrong for Joan. She has nothing in common with the sophisticated wealthy girls who take it for granted that Bob is in love with Barbara.

Doubts fill Joan's mind. Unhappy because of Barbara's positive attitude toward Bob, too proud to show that she is hurt, Joan accepts the attentions of JIM WARRFIELD. There is a dancing party and Joan, determinedly gay, has plenty of partners. Bob, not understanding her conduct, is disappointed in her.

CHAPTER XIV

Joan and Bob had barely circled the room when Jim put his hand on Bob's arm, cutting in on the dance. Bob made his way toward Barbara. The orchestra was playing a slow waltz. Barbara's bright head nestled close against Bob's shoulder, a smile curving her lips. The music stopped and they left the floor.

"I've been trying to get a word alone with you all evening," Jim told Joan, "but you're too popular. Listen, I'm out of cigarettes. Will you go with me to get some? There's a little store a few miles away that stays open all night."

Joan hesitated.

"Please come!"

"Why not?" she answered, thinking of Bob and Barbara leaving the dance floor, going through the door leading to a dimly-lighted porch.

"Don't bother about a wrap," said Jim. "My overcoat is in the car."

A few minutes later they were spinning along the smooth highway. The small store, windows bright even at this late hour, loomed up suddenly. Jim drove past.

"Your cigarettes?" said Joan. Jim laughed. "In my pocket."

"In your pocket?"

"Don't be silly, Joan. You know that was an excuse," Joan answered. "You said you wanted them."

"There were plenty at the house,

even if I hadn't been well supplied. And I am." He reached into his pocket.

"Strike a match for me, Joan." He checked the car's speed. Joan struck a match and as it flared up she saw his bright, feverish eyes.

"Thanks." He pulled the car to one side of the road, stopping it. "You know very well why I brought you away," he went on. "I wanted you here with me—away from that crowd. It isn't your crowd, Joan. And I'm crazy about you!"

His arms were about her suddenly. He was lifting her face to his. Joan, resisting fiercely, said: "If you kiss me I'll never forgive you, Jim."

"You don't think I'd lose this opportunity?" He was laughing. "I liked you," Joan said steadily. "You seemed decent and understanding. I thought you were the best friend I had there."

His arms dropped. "Well, have it your way then. If I were just a little drunker I wouldn't listen to you."

He started the car and Joan relaxed in her seat. The engine began jerking. Jim pulled out the choke and jammed it in again. The car moved along a few feet jerkily, then came to a standstill. "No gun, Joan," Jim said slowly. "There's nothing to do but walk to the store and get some."

"I'll go with you," she said. They walked along in silence until they reached the curve in the road.

"Hell!" said Jim. "The lights are out in the store." He turned and looked at her, at the frail white slippers she wore and groaned.

"I'm all kinds of an idiot! We'll have to walk."

"How far is it?" asked Joan.

"Nearly three miles."

"Let's start," she spoke bravely, steadily. But she was thinking miserably. "This is what comes of jealousy. I'm paying the piper."

"Where's that good-looking Joan girl?" Fred sang out.

"With Jim on the porch probably."

"Not on the porch," said Barbara. "They drove off in Jim's car an hour ago."

"Probably went to the store for cigarettes. I know those old tricks of Jim's," said Carol easily.

"Or a coca cola," suggested Charlie Ross with a laugh. "Or an aspirin," someone else offered cynically. "Jim probably needed one. He certainly didn't need any more liquid refreshment."

Rage burned in Bob's heart. To think of Joan going off with that jug-head, letting herself in for a lot of gossip and infernal speculation!

He went out on the porch, starting down the black stretch of road toward the neighbourhood store. He looked at his watch. It was one o'clock. A half hour later he looked at his watch again.

Some of the others came out on the porch. "I can't imagine what has happened to them," Carol was saying.

"We are being very silly," said Barbara. "Nothing's happened."

"They'll be coming in presently," Enid said.

"They always do," said Charlie in his tired, wise voice.

There were steps on the drive—a white blur in the darkness. And then, as the light from the porch reached out, a dark shadow beside the white.

Nicholas Constantinescu, the Bucharest University student who murdered Dr. Duca, Rumania's Premier recently.

Joan and Jim! They came up on the porch. The gay girl of two hours before had vanished. Joan's hair, blown by the long walk in the wind, was in disorder. There were deep, weary shadows under her eyes. Her shoulders, under the man's coat, sagged forlornly.

Jim's face showed strain, too. His hair was rumpled. His eyes were bright and feverish. Searching the faces on the porch, he said contemptuously, "A royal reception. Don't say you were really alarmed about us!"

"The gas ran out," he added slowly. And then, as no one spoke, "Now, some darn fool laugh!"

"But evidently your liquor didn't," This from Charlie.

"Comedy isn't your role," Jim said.

"Nobody but a damn idiot would drive off without enough gas in his car," said Bob.

"Lay off, will you, Weston?" said Jim dangerously.

Bob stepped forward but Barbara caught his arm. "Please, Bob, you are making it hard for Carol."

"Come on in," said Enid, striving for gaiety. "I have a dance with someone."

Joan slipped out of the big coat and handed it to Jim. "I'm going up," she said. "Good night."

She went inside and up the stairs slowly. As she reached the top she heard Carol's voice. "I shouldn't have invited her—Barbara warned me. Blood will tell you know. What could you expect from a girl whose father was a thief and a suicide?"

Joan put out one hand steadying herself against the railing. Wave upon wave of humiliation and shame poured through her. Shame most of all for herself. She had brought this upon herself, trying to be like the others, seeking cheap popularity. Trying to win Bob—when he wanted Barbara!

As she entered the room the group moved apart quickly. Carol said stiffly, "You must be tired. Is there anything I can do for you?"

"Nothing," said Joan steadily. "Hurry," Sally said to Enid. "Don't dawdle so. We're wasting a heavenly waltz." Enid dusted powder on her face and followed without a word.

"They know I heard," Joan thought. "But it really makes no difference to them."

Joan began undressing mechanically. Once, passing the mirror door, she saw a strange girl with tragic eyes, all the blood drained from her face. She felt tears against her lashes.

And three days before she had driven from Memphis, sure of happiness ahead.

Someone knocked at the door but before she reached it an envelope was slipped through. Joan stopped and picked it up. On the

RESTAURANT RAID
SEQUELGAMBLING CHARGE DISPUTED

A raid on the third floor of the Kam Ling Restaurant, West Point, at 1.45 o'clock this morning by Sub-Inspector Fender, resulted in the arrest of 18 persons who were participating in a game of dice.

The game was being run by Tong Yuk-shing, who was charged with the principal offence. The case came before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning. A second charge of gambling was also preferred against him and the 17 others.

Only two defendants made their appearance in Court when the case was called. They were Tong Yuk-shing and Yu Sang, who were represented by Mr. M. K. Lo. A plea of not guilty was entered, and hearing was fixed for to-morrow morning. The bail of $5 each of the other defendants were estreated.

Mr. Lo admitted the facts as set out by Sub-Inspector Fender, but said his defence would be on the ground as to whether the gambling was illegal or not.

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEYESTERDAY'S MARKET
EASY

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was easy yesterday. Business done, 1,220,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports: Although firm but dull, the market featured aviation issues which were up as much as two points due to the possibility of airmail contracts eventuating. Utilities were weak due to a statement by President Cortelyou, of Consolidated Gas of N. Y., that the utilities will be among the last to benefit from the recovery. Bonds were irregular. Wheat was down due to reports of moisture in the southwest, beneficial to crops. Heavy selling caused bar silver to decline to forty-six.

Our New York office cable: Stocks: Much quieter, continuing consolidating process. Still feel purchases advisable on minor reactions for gradually higher levels. Wheat: Displayed a lack of buying interest and declined on some liquidation and professional selling. News rather colourless. Until something develops to stimulate trade, prices are likely to continue to sag. Cotton: Buying slack and nonaggressive with March liquidation and disappointed selling on failure of market to hold pending crop legislation which appears less forceful factor at the moment. The administration is reported seeking a world curtailment agreement. Spots quiet. Silver: The market declined following London. Believe New York will continue to follow foreign markets.

FOREIGN AID FOR CHINA

Mr. Wang Ching-wei's statement of Government policy in regard to the economic development and material reconstruction of China betokens a keen perception of future needs. In particular, recognition of the necessity for foreign co-operation will be widely welcomed. When the immensity of the task which faces China is borne in mind, it becomes patent that, unaided, she cannot hope to achieve much. The vast natural resources of the country cannot possibly be developed until the system of communications is extended and the interior opened up in such a manner as to enable these largely untapped reserves to be efficiently exploited. In coal and other mineral resources, China has hidden supplies not only sufficient for her own needs but for the needs of the greater part of the world. So long as these are allowed to lie untouched, so long can it be said that China is not making her proper contribution to world progress and development. Given a disposition to avail herself of foreign aid, technical and financial, China can rise to a foremost place industrially and economically amongst the nations of the world. This fact is apparently now being borne in on the mind of her leaders, who realise that the task is of such magnitude that outside help is essential. That such help will be readily forthcoming, provided mutually satisfactory arrangements are made, there can be no question. Mr. Wang Ching-wei does well in this connexion to stress the point that there must be adequate security and guarantees if foreign financial help is sought. Other nations have greatly benefited from such aid, and there need be no question of fearing undue foreign influence in the arrangements necessary to the end in view. Indeed, China can easily reassure herself on this point by seeing that, once the arrangements are concluded, there is prompt and consistent discharge of obligations. Once this is assured, the way should be made easy. By the effective suppression of the Fukien revolt and by the progress so far made in handling the Communist menace, the Nanking Government is creating for itself an increasingly good reputation abroad. Wise financial policies, coupled with a willingness to seek sound foreign

NOTES OF THE DAY

PORTSMOUTH BY-ELECTION

Even such a popular candidate as Admiral Sir Roger Keyes in the naval-minded constituency of Portsmouth could not produce a reversal of the downward trend of National Government votes. Sir Roger gained the seat certainly, but the Conservative poll was reduced by nearly nine thousand. The inference is impossible to miss. The losses have been too consistent over the whole range of recent by-elections for any mistake to be visible. The National Government is no longer capable of inspiring national enthusiasm; the people are no longer keenly interested in its survival or defeat. Those holding political convictions have returned to party folds; the remainder cannot be bothered to record their votes one way or the other.

UP AND DOWN

Yet there are people, like Sir Oswald Mosley, who still believe that the British voter can be jollied into active demonstration of impatience with Parliamentary methods. They will in all likelihood spend a great deal more money on armoured cars and the like before admitting what a waste it is. Doubtless there are compensations. It must feel great to be able to conjure up the Crusader spirit—to be up and doing, even in the face of a tiny suspicion that it cannot be done.

NAZI ULTIMATUM

Herr Habicht's declaration of a Nazi armistice in Austria is a pretty clear indication of Germany's opinion of British, French and Italian solidarity regarding the independence of Austria. It is as much an ultimatum as a true offering and as such merely renders the outcome a trifle more uncertain. The strangest thing is Berlin's persistent refusal to acknowledge interference in Austria's internal affairs. The Habicht speech from the Munich broadcasting station was either a crude bluff or a plain intimation that the Nazi adherents in Austria are obedient to German orders. London, Paris and Rome are too obviously worried about the business to admit of the possibility that the Nazi spokesman was bluffing.

DULLFUSS DILEMMA

Dr. Dollfuss, meanwhile, is in a most unhappy position. His campaign against the Socialists deprived Austria of much sympathy in Britain, France, too, is inclined to be hostile. These are the two countries prepared to face the consequences of an Austrian appeal to the League. France, indeed, for reasons of her own, is disposed actively to encourage the step. Italy, on the other hand, is very strongly opposed to an appeal and it is to Rome that the Chancellor looks most anxiously for support in his difficulties. The position would be almost amusing were it not so serious, but the circumstances do not alter the fact that the worst disservice would be done to Geneva by bringing the Austrian question before the League Council just now. Berlin has left Geneva and would treat any representations just as she has done the direct protests from Vienna. Action instead of words would be perilous all round.

HUMANE SLAUGHTER

The decision to introduce humane-killers to Hongkong's abattoirs offers a great temptation to factiousness. It is, for instance, a safe assumption that the animals affected by efforts to provide for them a more merciful ending would be more appreciative of a campaign in favour of vegetarianism. Some, too, would ask whether this method of slaughter is to be restricted to cows, and if so, why? Such issues apart, the action of the Government will be generally approved—as long as the humane slaughterer does not shoot the public's pork also. In that case, there will be residents who will experience unexpected meatless days. The effect of shooting on a pig has to be seen to be believed.

co-operation, would at this stage greatly facilitate the progress of the nation. It goes without saying that, in any efforts along these lines, Britain can be counted upon as a real friend of China.

WOMAN AND HER MONEY

By EDITH SHACKLETON

SOMETIMES I think it should be taught in schools, to children in their first flush of pride at dealing with "£ s. d. sums," that money remains the same whether it is used by a man or a woman. If this fact were put clearly into the minds of little boys, perhaps they would not grow up into men who write letters like that in which Mr. C. Martin, informing the Editor of the News-Chronicle, that women "waste their wages," thus supplemented his sweeping charge:

See how they waste their wages. A man earning wages will keep two or more, and spend his wages on houses, furniture, fuel and food. A girl spends hers on "perms," powder, lipstick and chocolates, ice cream and ice-rinks. A man spends his wages in ways that increase employment. A girl's spending leaves builders, mechanics and labourers workless.

But who builds the working girl's ice rinks and chocolate factories?

Who pays the rates and rents of her hair dressing and ice cream establishments?

Are her purveyors furnished free of charge on the grounds that they cater for women only?

And how many young men clerks keep houses of their own or directly employ builders, mechanics and labourers?

The assumption that all young women are fed, housed and clothed by their male relatives and given their wages, if any, for pocket money may be comfortable, but is about as intelligent as a belief that all women wear elastic aided boots.

The core of this complaint is probably in that phrase "a man earning wages will keep two or more" for it is an unusual man who can work alongside a woman without becoming morosely conscious that he "keeps" somebody while she possibly does not. Yet the probability is that he "keeps" a wife he chose and who is his heart's delight as well as his housekeeper, counsellor and helper in all his enterprises while his woman colleague supports some aged, infirm or feeble relative she would never have chosen as housemate or as hobby, and is perhaps a hindrance socially and domestically rather than an asset or a help.

Woman's career as wife may have become easier in our own generation, but as daughter it has grown more responsible and difficult.

To parental eyes daughters who have fought their way into business or professions are still "the girls," to be depended on for companionship and assistance of every sort, though the sons have gone free long ago.

This is one of the reasons why women have not yet enough money to spend.

For, in fact, women as yet do so little spending entirely according to their own desires that it is far too early to announce general tendencies in feminine ways of self-indulgence.

Mass luxury spending is as yet nearly all done by men.

Women have only just begun to make any difference to the cigarette trade, and if men were all suddenly deprived of pocket-money the football grounds and dog racing tracks would be deserted, and nearly all the public houses might be closed. So indeed, might be the fashionable golf clubs, yacht clubs, racecourses and restaurants.

No caterer would know just how to lure women's money if women, in an instant, became the pocket-moneyed sex.

It might be futile to multiply dress shops and beauty shops for there is no sound evidence that fashion and cosmetics are the chief desires of the average woman.

At present most women spend a lot of time in planning, making and choosing clothes, but this is because they can save money that way, not always because they would rather have clothes than concerts or hollyhock bulbs or foreign travel.

No man, by taking thought and buying a remnant and a paper pattern, can fit himself out cheaply in raiment which will pass muster with the costly products of Savile-row.

I have noticed that most of my women friends, as they became successful in their professions, thought less about clothes as they began to be able to pay more for them. The things they most like to spend money on are at least as diverse as they would be among a group of men. One will expend a carefully hoarded twenty guineas on a water softener while another gives more for a Tang horse—and both are stingy about taxicabs.

I cannot give myself the cheapest hair-wave without a wretched feeling of extravagance, but when I have any spending money I can disperse it without a pang on claret or Georgian silver.

Mr. Martin complains that women do not support builders, mechanics and labourers, but what about all the spinster savings that go into the building societies?

Women have never yet had enough money to spend according to their own desires, yet the laying out of income is one of the subjects in which they are, generally speaking, better trained than men.

The small boy is allowed to lose or waste his pennies, while in all but the most advanced nurseries the little girl is advised to save hers to buy mummy a birthday present.

The schoolgirl is entrusted with the partial laying out of her dress allowance long before the school-boy is.

And all through the wage-earning classes the housewife administers the income and does out pocket-money to the husband. No man who wishes to preserve an illusion that woman is a money-wasting creature should ever make a tour of observation through the stores and shopping streets when they are most frequented.

The Very Safe!

THE EARLY WORM.

By Eddie Kelly, the Bird.

SPEAKING of married life reminds us that Hongkong never has a "Be Kind to Worms" Week.

We know a man who was so cruel to worms that a magistrate sent him to prison for a week in an S.P. C.A. complaint. He used to put a worm's tail into its mouth and watch it swallow itself.

And to think that that man was once an innocent little babe, lounging about on his mother's knee!

As for us, we can say with a certain amount of pride that we've never taken worms.

We have taken everything else, from pills to mustard baths and aspirins, but so far we haven't shown any serious and determined hankering for worms.

Speaking of worms reminds us of the American prohibitionist who demonstrated with no.

"Folks," he said, "with his poor worm I will show you the evil influences of whisky. See, I place the worm in the glass of whisky. He wriggles. It is burning him up. He dies. Poor little worm. Ah, the evils of drink!"

The little lady in the font seat applauded.

"Tell me, doctor," she said, "will any brand of whisky do that?"

"Yes," said the demonstrator.

"Thank the Lord. I've been troubled with worms for years."

We, too, know a great deal about worms. There are two kinds of worms. Long worms and short worms.

The long worms can be easily distinguished from the short worms; the head of the short worm being invariably closer to the tail than in the case of the long worm.

It has long puzzled scientists how the worm finds a hole to fit in.

Nature in its awful wisdom has provided holes of various sizes all over Hongkong. All the worm has to do is to tramp about to find a hole that fits.

We know of one worm with gaiters that walked from Castle Peak to Quarry Bay before it found a suitable home. Even then it was only a semi-detached home, being next to the quarry.

The grub is very close to the worm and could quite easily be taken for a worm by anyone who has never seen a worm.

The only difference between the two is that one has more legs, and more hair on its chest than the other. The grub is also better upholstered.

Some grubs may be found underneath logs, although how the devil the little chaps balance those great, big legs has got a beat.

We cannot speak with authority on the subject, but presume that the grub lies on its back and then pulls the log or itself.

The centipede is really an armour-plated worm, equipped with a knife and fork at one end and a lot of legs, an incalculable number, and how it keeps in shape? We won't bother about it. See you start thinking about grubs like that, you go mad and run round in circles barking like a dog.

mented by their regular customers.

He should never allow himself to study the dutiful, woe expressions of the women tentatively studying flesh, fowl, and od red herring, or considering the difference between the price of sprouts and cauliflower.

Is this the impulsive ex that knows nothing of the value of money and cannot put to the common good?

Around them are displayed, with every artifice, the men can devise, delicate food delicious fruits, shimmering fics and exquisite flowers. In such environments men not only lose their heads from lack of training, but women, too.

They are too well to laying out other people's money, too little accustomed to spending their own.

"I don't know—I just don't seem to enjoy anything any more."

Thousands of men, women and children are standing in a queue at least a mile long, waiting to file slowly past the open coffin. Some of the mourners from outlying districts started hours before dawn to-day to go to the capital, where rich and poor alike and joining in a last act of devotion to their beloved Sovereign. The body will be taken on Thursday from the Palace to the Cathedral Church of St. Gudule, where Mass will be sung, after which the procession will be reformed and the cortege will proceed to Laeken for the burial. —Reuter's Special Service.

GERMAN EX-ROYALTY NOT TO ATTEND.

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received, February 21, 11.10 p.m.)

London, Feb. 21. The Daily Herald states that the German ex-Crown Prince expressed a wish to attend the funeral of the King of the Belgians and made representations with that end in view.

The Journal adds that no invitation has been forthcoming. The United Press correspondent at Doorn says it has been announced that the ex-Kaiser will not be represented at the funeral because, the House of Hohenzollern has not maintained any association with the Belgian Court since the war. —United Press.

MOVING TRIBUTES IN PARLIAMENT

Prime Minister's Oration

London, Feb. 20.

Eloquent and moving tributes to the late King Albert were delivered in both Houses of Parliament to-day.

In the Commons, the floor and galleries were crowded when at the end of question time the Prime Minister rose to move that King George be asked to convey an expression of the deep regret with which the House had learned the news of King Albert's death and to pray him to express the profound sympathy felt with the Queen of the Belgians, the Royal family and the Government and people of Belgium.

The Prime Minister said the late King held a unique place among the rulers of Europe. He recalled how at the outbreak of the war in 1914, this quiet and unostentatious man was unshakable in his devotion to national liberty and his loyalty to obligations.

He was the embodiment of his people and one of the most powerful personal factors in the conduct of the war. As the months passed he grew in stature in the eyes of all who had dealings with him.

A PLEDGE FULFILLED.

He was patient in suffering and restrained in triumph. Through the whole of that terrible time he was faithful to the charge of his kingship.

Throughout the years of his reign, King Albert had fulfilled the pledge given in the first speech he delivered from the Throne when he declared "A Sovereign must be unceasingly attentive to the voice of the country and watch with sympathy over the state of the humblest. He is the servant of law and the guardian of social peace."

The Prime Minister added: "In bidding him farewell, one can but say he was a fine man, a great King and a noble citizen."

COURAGE AND WISDOM.

On behalf of the opposition, Major Atlee also expressed heartfelt sympathy, describing the late King as a man who in adversity and war displayed high courage and constancy, and in the difficult times of peace, wisdom and understanding.

Other speakers included Sir Herbert Samuel, who during the early stages of the war was the Minister responsible for the welfare of the quarter of a million Belgian refugees who came to Sir Oswald Mosley and two of his lieutenants. There is a growing movement for the prohibition of the wearing of uniforms by political parties in England.

LORD'S TRIBUTES. In the House of Lords, Lord Hailsham said that King Albert in physical perfection, intellectual ability and in greatness of character, was a prominent figure in Europe, and the world, especially at this moment, could ill afford his loss.

BLACK SHIRTS IN ENGLAND

PROVOCATION TO DISORDER

PROHIBITION LIKELY

London, Feb. 20. The Mosley Black Shirt campaign in England is causing increasing concern to the authorities, not because of the headway it is making but because of the hostility aroused in many places.

Asked in the House of Commons, whether he proposed to prohibit the wearing of uniforms by political parties, the Home Secretary, Sir John Gilmour, said that representations on the subject had reached him from many quarters.

He was most concerned with the provocative effect of such uniforms in the streets and public places, and disturbances, which the police attributed to the wearing of political uniforms, had increased from eleven in the first half of 1933 to twenty-two in the last six months.

The whole question was engaging his serious consideration. —British Wireless.

GOLF CLUB DOG UNMUZZLED

DEEP WATER MAY INCIDENT

Ho Dun, an employee of the Deep Water Bay Golf Club, was summoned before Mr. Balfour at the Central Magistracy this morning for allowing his brown and black bitch in the Island Road outside the Golf Club without being muzzled or on a lead on February 13. Defendant pleaded guilty.

Acting Sub-Inspector Armit said the summons arose out of an incident which occurred on the main road at 7 a.m. on the day in question. The dog bit a Chinese woman who was walking towards Repulse Bay, and she received treatment at the Golf Club and was later sent to hospital.

The dog was seized and sent to Kennedy Town. During the past eight days it had not shown any signs of rabies but had shown a natural tendency to be fierce. The dog had not come under the notice of the police for biting people before and therefore they could not call it a ferocious animal. It came under police notice in July last when the Secretary of the Club (Col. Matthews) was fined for the dog being unmuzzled. The licence had since been transferred to the defendant's name.

The Magistrate imposed a fine of eight dollars.

GLOUCESTER BUILDING PROFIT

LAND INVESTMENT CO. MEETING

SATISFACTORY RESULTS

The fact that the Company had purchased Nos. 17-19, Queen's Road Central at about $55 per sq. ft. and that the residential portion of the Gloucester Building scheme was yielding a satisfactory profit, was stated by the Chairman (the Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson) at the annual general meeting of shareholders in the Hongkong Land Investment & Agency Co., Ltd., held in the Board Room of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ltd., to-day at noon.

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH.

The Secretary (Mr. L. S. Greenhill) having read the notice convening the meeting, the Chairman said:—Gentlemen,—with your permission I propose to follow the usual procedure and take first report and statement of accounts as read. In the matter of the profit and loss Account, you will notice that there are some increases in expenditure. "Charges" has advanced by about $14,000, which, is due, partly, to an ex gratia payment made to the sister of our late accountant, Mr. H. A. Rodgers, who died in June last. As a consequence of this, your Directors have decided to inaugurate a Staff Trust Fund which is designed to meet further charges of this nature and to provide for the future of the staff.

Provision is being made now for depreciation of Gloucester Building, which item appears for the first time. The last year seems to have been abnormal in the amount of damage caused by white ants and this, together with rather more repair work than usual, has helped to swell the total under "Repairs" Account.

"GLOUCESTER" PROFITS.

On the credit side a profit of $100,000, is shown by the residential portion of Gloucester Building and I think that you will agree that this is a very satisfactory result considering the times through which we are passing. The asset side of the balance sheet shows a new heading, "Renovations of Building," it having been decided to spread over a period of three years the cost of "doing-up" our buildings.

There were no sales of property during the year under review but your Directors took advantage of an attractive offer and purchased Nos. 17-19 Queen's Road, Central at about $55, per square foot.

It is proposed to pay a final dividend of $2 per share absorbing $600,000, which, with the interim dividend, will make a total of $1 per share for the year. It is proposed, also, to pay a bonus to the staff of $10,000, appropriate $39,029.99 to "Special Repairs and Renewals" Account and $100,000 to our "Rebuilding Reserve" Account, thus leaving $538,485.62 to be carried forward to a new account. I now beg to propose the adoption of the report and accounts as presented and, when this has been duly seconded, I shall be pleased to answer, to the best of my ability, any questions that shareholders may wish to ask.

Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy seconded the adoption of the report and accounts, and the motion was carried unanimously.

OTHER BUSINESS.

The appointment of Mr. S. T. Williamson as a Director, was confirmed, on the motion of Mr. J. D. Danby, seconded by Mr. E. Grant Smith.

Mr. T. E. Pearce and Sir Robert Ho Tung were re-elected to the Board of Directors on the proposal of Mr. W. S. Bailey, seconded by Mr. J. W. Tarrant.

Messrs. Percy Smith, Soth & Fleming, and Messrs. Linstead & Davis were reappointed Auditors, on the proposal of Mr. L. G. Frost, seconded by Mr. I. G. Allison.

This concluded the business of the meeting. The Chairman announced that dividend warrants would be ready to-morrow.

Present were Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson (Chairman); Messrs. A. H. Compton, H. H. Priestley, Felix A. Joseph, T. E. Pearce and S. T. Williamson (Directors); Mr. L. S. Greenhill (Secretary); and the following shareholders: Messrs. L. C. F. Bellamy, J. W. Tarrant, Frank Austin, E. E. Strother, W. J. Koswick, A. C. Kennedy, H. Sumner, J. Sumner, F. C. Hall, N. V. A. Croucher, E. Grant Smith, Oscar Beyer, L. G. Frost, I. G. Allison, W. D. Bailey, J. D. Danby, A. H. Chambers and M. L. Railton.

FIRE DANGER

ILLEGAL STORAGE OF KEROSENE

A fine of $100 was imposed on Chen In, the master of the Wing Fung Tai ship, 58 Tai Nan Street, Shamshui, by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning for storing kerosene at his yard without a permit from the Hon. I.G.P.

Mr. J. C. FitzHenry, of the Fire Brigade, stated that he received information to the effect that defendant had 10 large drums of gasoline, totalling 600 gallons, stored on his premises. He went there to make an inspection, and found 80 gallons of kerosene in the yard. Defendant had a licence to store only 32 gallons inside his shop.

His Worship:—How was the kerosene in the yard stored?

Mr. FitzHenry:—It was stored among a lot of rubbish.

His Worship:—Was it likely to start a fire?

Mr. FitzHenry:—It was.

Mr. FitzHenry also told the Court that some months ago he received an application from the Texas Oil Company, for whom defendant acted as agent, asking that he be allowed to store more gasoline in his shop. After consideration, the Fire Brigade refused the application as defendant's premises were not fire-proof.

ARE GLASGOW RANGERS FLAGGING IN THE RACE?

(By "The Pilgrim")

For all but eight clubs the glamour and dash, the worry and excitement of cup-tie football are over for a season and the more important if less enterprising matter of League matches claim their attention.

Derby are again presented with an opportunity to make margin though I doubt whether they will have an easy task in overcoming Wednesday in view of their recent progress. The Baseball ground where the Rams play will be overcrowded by fans of both clubs.

I do not think Arsenal will do better than force a division at Newcastle, whilst Huddersfield who go to Leicester, will be fully extended if they intend to make a serious challenge for supremacy.

With Portsmouth still taking a lively interest in the Cup, it is not likely that they will run undue risk of injuries, and because of this the Spurs may not receive such stern opposition from the Fratton Park team. It is quite reasonable to anticipate a win for Tottenham.

Difficult For The Prophet

Many home wins are indicated by the fixture list, though if there are last week's crop of surprises to confound the prophet, forecasters will soon be out of business. I think the end of the season makes the calculation of results even more difficult as there are more new factors to reckon with after two or three months of intensive play.

Grimby will be hard put to it to maintain their fine record at Plymouth, and Lincoln can expect little good from their engagement at Bradford City. Norwich are at home and they should increase their margin of points by defeating their closest rivals—Queen's Park Rangers.

In the third division I can only back Chesterfield for a win away though I am not sure that Walsall will not get the better of Crews. However in view of the latter's performance last week I have thrown in my lot with them.

Rangers are only three points behind the leaders now but I wonder if they are not flagging in the race?

Against this it is time for a Motherwell revival of the early season spirit when they held a splendid record of successive wins.

SOME REFLECTIONS: INTERESTING ITEMS FROM THE VARIOUS CLUBHOUSES

(By "The Pilgrim")

THERE are less than a dozen matches to go before the close of the 1933-34 season and already the indications of the finish-up point to some startling changes from last May.

ARSENAL may or may not—probably not—finish at the top again, but they certainly will not collect the 58 points they reached last season.

UNLESS Chelsea buck up tremendously they also will not total the 35 which saved them from relegation.

VILLA are making a last minute push and we may yet see them among the first three or four.

THE rise of Wednesday during the last six weeks when they have been under new management, is almost phenomenal compared with their collapse after October.

SCARCELY one of the lower half placings in the 1932-33 season have shown much improvement and the Spurs who finished second to the leaders in the Second Division, have ploughed their way to one of the top positions.

SIMILARLY Brentford have risen from second place in the Southern Section to a similar high place in the next division.

BLACKPOOL and Bolton, the two relegated clubs from the senior division are holding their own but Manchester United continue on the downward path.

CHESTERFIELD are almost assured of going back to the second division after an absence of only one season and although they have dropped off slightly their great form of a few weeks ago should enable them to finish up strongly.

TO revert to other things I should mention that Portsmouth are making a splendid fight against the adversity of the draw.

Three Goals
For Champion
JockeyIN INTER-HONG FOOTBALL

Playing for Jardines against the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank on the Club ground yesterday, Leo Frost, the local champion jockey was in fine shooting form and scored three goals, playing a prominent part in the defeat of the Bank by four clear goals.

The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank forwards did quite a considerable amount of attacking, but they lacked finish, and although several opportunities were presented they were unable to take advantage of them. L. G. Robertson, playing at centre-half, was the outstanding man for them. A. D. Lawson, in goal, was quite safe, and was responsible for keeping down the score against his side. The goals which were netted against him, would have defeated any goal-keeper.

Jardines forward line, composed of Butler, Hill, Frost, Nicholls and Dinman, showed a very good understanding, and was also much faster than that opposing. Their defence also put in some good work, while White, in goal, had very little work to do.

The first half was evenly contested, only one goal being scored by L. G. Frost, but in the second half, the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank was completely outplayed, and three more goals were added, the first being through Nicholls, and the other two by Frost.

The teams were as follows:

Jardines—White; Urquhart and Bailton; Stevenson, Poonchoo and Dinman; Butler, Hill, Frost, Nicholls and Dinman. Reserves: Chadderton and Allan-Balch.

H.K. and S. Bank—Lawson; Bradford and Cummings; Jardine, Robertson and Moutrie; Stillard, Stewart, Turner, King and Allen. Reserves: Browning and Birch.

As announced at the beginning of the week, the Australian Universities rugby fifteen which is returning to the Colony by the Kitanu Maru, will meet a local side at Happy Valley on Friday afternoon, commencing at 4.45 p.m.

After the match in the afternoon the team will be entertained to a dinner by the Hongkong Football Club.

The departure of H.M.S. Medway on exercises has deprived the Colony of some of the best players but quite a strong side will nevertheless be fielded against the tourists.

The following players have been selected for the Colony fifteen: J. P. Whitham (Club); J. J. Ferguson (Club); Lieut. A. G. Martin (Army); L. G. Robertson (Club) and G. P. Lammert (Club); M. W. DULL TENNIS
AT
CASSUMBHOY & RAZACK
AGAIN PLAY WELLSEVERAL ATTRACTIVE GAMES
THIS AFTERNOONFOUR OF LAST EIGHT BRACKETS
SHOULD BE FILLED

(By "Veritas").

Tennis was dull at the Cricket Club yesterday where a short programme of four doubles matches in the open championship was played off.

On the No. 1 court, Ho Ka-lau and Tsui Wai-pui were concerned in a very disappointing encounter against F. H. Kwok and S. W. Liang, winning 6-2, 6-2 after some very commonplace exchanges.

Interest in the match was kept alive by the duels between Kwok and Ho, the former's fierce forehand drives being countered by Ho's stolid volleying, which eventually decided the issue.

Tsui Wai-pui was decidedly variable and lacked control. Liang was also but a shadow of the player who gave Cassumbhoi such a good game in the first round of the singles.

TSUI OFTEN PASSED.

Kwok thoroughly enjoyed himself, and might have met with more success had he mixed his shots and found a better length in lobbing. Occasionally his powerful forehand drives, delivered with the full force of his body, caught the winners napping. He passed Tsui several times.

Ho Ka-lau played his customary steady game, and achieved the task of covering up Tsui's errors with distinction.

Tsui was often caught in two minds about his shot and did not cover the court at all well. Liang was weak in ground strokes and was frequently caught on the wrong foot.

The best tennis of the day was played by Cassumbhoi and Razack, and this, following on their attractive display in the first round, prompts one to believe that they will give the Rumjahn cousins a good match in the quarter-finals.

Luk Chun-cheung and Wong Shui-wing, although holding their own in the rallies, had not the finishing shots of the I.R.C. pair and this alone was responsible for the scores of 6-1, 6-1. Cassumbhoi and Razack were practically errorless, and whenever they advanced to the net it was to bring off a spectacular coup.

TSUI'S CLEVER TENNIS.

Guest and Hyde, the K.C.C. first division league couple, offered but little resistance to Willie Hung and Lu Tak-cheuk and were easily beaten in straight sets. The K.C.C. pair did not play with the same understanding as their opponents and were often caught spread-eagled.

Tsui Ping-fan was the outstanding player in the three set match with Tsui Yun-pui against Lu Tak-lam and Lau Man-ching. His lobbing and volleying were excellent, and he and Tsui should have won in straight sets. Tsui was seen to most advantage in the final set, when thanks largely to his initiative, the losers found themselves 1-4 in arrears. Tsui Yun-pui remained perfectly steady and has considerably toned down his doubles game to advantage.

Lau was a weak link in the final set, and the winners wisely concentrated on him. Lu made very few mistakes, but was afforded small chance of taking an active part in the exchanges. Some of the rallies were featured by excellent tennis, but all of the contestants had their bad moments, with Lau the chief sufferer.

Second and third round singles offer several attractions this afternoon, and at least four of the last eight brackets should be filled. The most important tie is between S. A. Rumjahn and Lai Kwong-tsun, the Canton challenger. Lai, who has developed his game on the principle of hard hitting, will probably find Rumjahn too steady. Furthermore a fast game is all to Sirdar's liking and it will be surprising if he loses a set.

HUNG'S TASK.

W. C. Hung will be given a real opportunity of showing his full capabilities as he meets Duff. Hung's chief concern will be to cover the court fast enough to deal with Duff's very early drives and hard volleys.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Lu Tak-cheuk and W. C. Hung beat Hyde and Guest 6-2, 6-1.
Cassumbhoi and Razack beat Luk Chun-cheung and Wong Shui-wing 6-1, 6-1.
Tsui Yun-pui and Tsui Ping-fan beat Lu Tak-lam and Lau Man-ching 6-2, 6-8, 6-2.
Ho Ka-lau and Tsui Wai-pui beat F. H. Kwok and S. W. Liang 6-2, 6-2.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

The beginner always finds it difficult to recognize a squeeze play, since there never have been set rules on how to recognize one, and there are so many different types. Of course the most difficult of all squeezes to recognize and to execute properly is the triple squeeze—where you squeeze both opponents. Between them, they must try to protect three suits. If the squeeze is applied properly, they find it impossible to do so. Here is one of the triple squeeze plays that came up at the recent national championship tournament in Cincinnati.

West's opening bid of one spade is rather light, but the fact that he does make an original bid helps him and his partner to arrive at a game contract.

The Play

South opened the queen of hearts. I have found that the opening of the jack and x. especial.

Today's Contract Problem

South is the declarer at three no trump. West opens a heart. When should South win the heart trick? When does he win, his first play is the deuce of diamonds. What card should West play and why?

♠ 8 7 2	♥ 7 3	♦ 10 9 6 3	♣ 10 9 6 3
♠ K 10 8 6	♥ A J 7 6 3	♦ W	♣ Q J 6
♠ 2	♥ 9 5 2	♦ S	♣ 8 6 4
♠ K 10	♥ 8	♦ Dealer	♣ A 8 7
♠ Q 10 6	♥ A Q 5
	♥ A 9 4
	♥ Q 9 2

Solution in next issue.

ly at no trump, often will prove beneficial, but the queen and x usually has proved to be a losing play, as it does in this particular hand.

West won with the king, and the seven of diamonds was returned. North showed out, discarding the ten of clubs and East, the declarer, won the trick with the queen.

East then could take the finesse of the trump in dummy, North discarding a heart.

A small club was returned, North winning with the queen. North returned a small heart, and East finessed the ten, which held the trick. The five of diamonds was led and won in dummy with the king, North discarding a spade.

A small club was returned, North played the king and declarer trumped with the six of diamonds. He then led the ace of diamonds, picking up South's last trump. A small club was discarded from dummy.

North was squeezed—he could not let go a heart or declarer's ace and six would be good, so he released the ace of clubs, allowing his partner to protect the club suit with the jack.

Declarer now led the ten of diamonds, South dropped the five of clubs, dummy discarded the seven of spades, and North was squeezed in both spades and hearts. He decided, however, to drop the six of spades.

East now led the ace of hearts, which squeezed South. If he let go the jack of clubs, dummy's nine would be good, so he released the three of spades and declarer discarded the nine of clubs from dummy, winning the last three

NEW AIRPORTS IN FUKIEN

JAPANESE COMPLAINT DISCOUNTED

(Special to "Telegraph")

Nanking, Feb. 21. Report from Tokyo suggests that the Japanese Government intends to remind the Chinese Government of Japan's anxiety over the alleged international significance of the two big aerodromes recently built in Amoy and Fochow.

Mr. Wang Ching-wel declared in an interview with a Central News representative that the two aerodromes referred to were merely the old ones, enlarged somewhat in order to meet the needs of military operations against the "Reds" and civil aviation.

The report that the cost of building the aerodromes in Fukien was met from the U.S. Cotton and Wheat Loan was branded as absolutely groundless. — Central News.

HIGHLY SKILLED ACTING

Features Presentation By A.D.C.

Highly skilled acting makes the presentation of "Ten Minute Alibi" one of the most praiseworthy efforts in the long history of the Hongkong Amateur Dramatic Club, and it is not surprising that this exciting drama, which is now playing at the Haymarket Theatre, London, is also attracting large audiences at the Naval Canteen Theatre.

There is a refreshing originality about the story which is only equalled by the clever work of the players. The cast is without a weakness, and the characters, as they gradually reveal themselves make fascinating studies.

The highest credit is due to the cast and Mrs. Fay Grossman for the best entertainment Hongkong has had for a long time.

Further performances of this Anthony Armstrong gem will be given to-night, as well as on Friday and Saturday evening, starting at 9.15 p.m.

CLEAN FOOTBALL JOCK SUTHERLAND FAMOUS PITCH COACH

ROUGH football has caused numerous accidents in the past few years. The only way to reduce these injuries is to play the game cleanly. "Jock" Sutherland, famous football coach whose University of Pittsburgh Panthers are headlines in eastern football, has written a series on "Clean Football" for Freckles readers. It will appear as part of this strip several times a week. Here is the first one:

THE sketch at left illustrates the illegal use of hands, arms and legs in blocking. The player facing the reader has pushed his right leg between the legs of his opposing line man and is holding his opponent's leg against his own. This sometimes results in painful injury to the player who is held, as any action in the line will throw him off balance and under a pile-up.

EX-XIXTH ARMY STOWAWAYS

Eleven Chinese who claimed to be disbanded soldiers of the 19th Route Army were charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning with stowing away on the s.s. Wing Lee from Canton to Hongkong.

Sergeant Wheeler told the Court that defendants were found on board by the Chief Officer at 9 a.m. yesterday, the ship having sailed from Canton at 6 a.m. Originally 40 soldiers were found on board, but all except the defendants managed to pay their passage.

His Worship:—Where did they intend going?

Sergeant Wheeler:—Pakhoi.

"NO GOOD".

Defendants stated that they were returning home. When they were in Canton, General Chan Chai-tong had a look at them and said they were no good. They had no money and they therefore stowed away.

His Worship:—This is a difficult business. What I can do is to send them to gaol. Then we feed them, and after they have served their sentence, we have to send them away. That means they win, anyway. At the same time, I cannot allow them to board any ship they like.

In fining defendants $10 or 14 days each, his Worship suggested that somebody ought to consult the Harbour Master and take

OLD RESIDENT'S DEATH

MR. J.M. DE CASTRO
BASTO PASSES

The Portuguese community of Hongkong has suffered a heavy loss by the death of Mr. J. M. de Castro Basto, of Messrs. Noronha and Co., Government printers, who passed away at the age of 80 years at the Canossa Hospital this morning. Mr. Basto had only been ill a few days, death resulting from double pneumonia.

A member of a well-known Macao family, the late Mr. Basto in his early days was employed in clerical work in Hongkong, and later in Shanghai and Hankow. He returned to the Colony in the early 80's setting up as a share and general broker. He toured the world three times, and on one occasion visited London in the interests of a syndicate in connexion with petroleum exploitation in Timor. He was made a Commander of the Order of Christ by the Portuguese Government. On the death of the late Mr. Delino Noronha, he acquired the business of Messrs. Noronha and Co. He was a keen horticulturist. Much sympathy will be felt with the family in their bereavement.

The funeral takes place this evening, passing the Monument at 5.30 p.m.

OLDHAMCHALLENGING FOR PROMOTION

London, Feb. 20.

Bolton Wanderers are in brilliant form just now. Following up their remarkable 3-0 Cup victory at Liverpool on Saturday, they to-day defeated Oldham Athletic by three goals to one at Oldham, in a Second Division league match.

The success puts them in a strong challenging position for promotion, the leading positions in the table being:

	P.	W.	D.	L.	F.	A.	Pts.
Grimsby	29	20	1	8	70	41	41
Brentford	29	15	5	9	64	47	35
Bolton	29	16	2	11	57	44	34
Port Vale	28	14	5	9	39	33	33
Blackpool	29	12	9	8	40	33	33
Preston	28	13	0	9	51	38	32

In the Third Division (North), York City took part in a high-scoring game at Rochdale which added to the home side's discomfiture at the foot of the table. Rochdale scored three goals, but it was far from sufficient for victory, their own defence being penetrated on six occasions.

It was Rochdale's seventh defeat of the season.—Reuter.
